Dag, Katanga President Discuss Truce

Hopes Rise For General Cease-Fire

Tshombe Agrees To Talks Following Report Of Mutiny

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold met with Katanga's President Moise Tshombe in this copper belt frontier town Sunday to discuss a truce in the fight between Katangans and troops of the U.N. Congo command.

Separate planes brought the two antagonists to Ndola, 130 miles southeast of Tshombe's battle-scarred capital, Elisabethville. Tshombe flew from that city; Hammarskjold from Leopoldville.

The two went into conference immediately at the Ndola Airport control building. Police guarded the building, and newsmen were barred.

On hand with the principals were Lord Alport, British high commissioner in the Central African Federation, of which Northern Rhodesia is a part, and an official of the Northern Rhodesian government.

Dag Takes Personal Hand

The break came in the fifth day of warfare set off by U.N. efforts militarily to force the rebellious, mineral-rich province back under the rule of the Congo's central government in Leopoldville.

Hammarskjold, who has been on his third visit to the Congo, took a personal hand, in the knowledge the Katanga bloodshed could create a furor in the U.N. General Assembly opening Tuesday in New York.

A special U.N. plane took him to Ndola.

British diplomats acted as middlemen. Britain's undersecretary of state, Lord Lansdowne, made the arrangements in Ndola. The British consul in Elisabethville had relayed word that Tshombe wanted to talk.

The United Nations announced Sunday morning that Tshombe had agreed to meet with Conor Cruise O'Brien, Irish chief of U.N. operations in Katanga, at the Rhodesian copper-mining town of Bancroft. But U.N. spokesmen refused later to say whether such a meeting had taken place.

"Lone Ranger" Strikes Again

Even as hopes rose for a general cease-fire, a Katanga jet fighter that U.N. troops call "the Lone Ranger" again bombed and strafed the Elisabethville airport. A parked U.N. plane was damaged.

Tshombe's pledged fight to the death had suffered a setback at the key town of Jadotville.

Early Returns Indicate Drop Below Majority

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats Monday lost their tight control of the West German Parliament in a bitterly fought election dominated by the Berlin crisis.

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats moved to a comfortable lead Monday in unofficial and incomplete returns from West Germany's parliamentary elections. But Adenauer's hold on voters appeared to have slipped from its mark of former years.

Early returns indicated the Christian Democrats may lose up to five per cent of the nation's popular vote and perhaps up to 20 of the 281 seats it holds in West Germany's 497-seat Parliament.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's Social Democrats and the right-wing Free Democrats made considerable gains. An Adenauer spokesman admitted his party would lose strength but said it still hoped to muster a majority vote.

A Christian Democrat victory short of that would force formation of a coalition government.

Unofficial Returns

Unofficial returns from 49 of 247 election districts gave these results:

Christian Democrats 2,948,483 (48.2 per cent compared to 53.5 per cent in the same districts in 1957); Social Democrats 2,047,180 (34.1 per cent compared to 27.1 per cent in these districts in 1957); Free Democrats 805,678 (13 per cent compared to 8.7 in these districts in 1957), All-German Party 169,333 (2.8 per cent compared to 7.6 per cent won in these districts in 1957 by the now non-existent Germany Party); the neutralist German Peace Party, a new organization, 101,356 (1.5 per cent).

Various splinter parties got the remaining 0.4 per cent of votes.

Adenauer's loss was believed due to feelings among some West Germans that Willy Brandt had taken a stronger stand against the Russians than Adenauer when the Soviets walled up much of East Berlin Aug. 13.

Adenauer Re-Elected

Indications were that if Adenauer is forced to form a coalition government, it would be with the Free Democrats. This party stands for close cooperation — like Adenauer — with the West, but would more readily try new experiments toward understanding with the Communist world.

Adenauer himself was re-elected by a commanding vote margin in his home district of Bonn. Most of his ministers, including Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard and Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss, also were re-elected.

But others only barely squeaked back. One was Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, whose majority over his Socialist opponent was narrow.

Kennedy Will Decide Today On UN Appeal

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy will decide by late Monday whether or not to go before the United Nations in person with a new plea for disarmament, the White House reported Sunday.

Despite preparations at the U.N. in New York to receive the chief executive next Thursday, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters at the Hyannis White House "no decision has been made."

Salinger added, however, that he thought the "situation will be clear by Monday night." The U. N. General Assembly opens in New York Tuesday. The President has a news conference scheduled in Washington for 10 a.m. (EDT) Thursday, but this could be shifted or postponed if he decides to take personal command of the U. S. peace offensive in the U. N.

Other developments at the Hyannis White House Sunday included:

—The President was kept informed of the situation in Katanga by intelligence reports relayed to him from Washington. Col. Godfrey McHugh, air force aide to the President, gave him a detailed intelligence briefing Sunday morning on Katanga and other world hot spots.

—Possibl· pertaining to U. N. plans, as well as the Western foreign ministers meeting in Washington, Kennedy conferred by telephone Saturday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. When the General Assembly convenes, Rusk will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to determine the extent to which Russia is willing to negotiate her differences with the United States over Berlin.

New Zealand Proposes UN China Debate

U.S., In Tactics Switch, Decides To Support Move

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —New Zealand proposed Sunday that the United Nations General Assembly debate the question of Chinese representation in its 16th session starting Tuesday.

The United States quickly made known that it would vote for such a debate—thus dropping its 10-year-old strategy of getting the assembly to postpone the discussion from year to year. But the switch was only a matter of tactics, not policy.

U.S. Wants Study Group

A U.S. spokesman said the United States still will oppose any effort to oust the Chinese Nationalists and seat the Chinese Communists. Instead, the United States or one of its friends is expected to move for the creation of a special study committee on the Chinese seating and related problems.

The committee would report back next year, delaying decision on Red China's admittance for at least another year.

The New Zealand request will be taken up Wednesday in the assembly's 21-nation Steering Committee and probably by the 99-nation assembly a few days later. To put the question on the agenda takes only a simple majority vote. The United States dropped its strategy of postponing discussion because it feels it lacks the necessary notes.

U.S. Reviews Hungary Issue

Shortly before New Zealand acted, the United States proposed that "the question of Hungary" go on the assembly's agenda for the sixth straight year since Soviet troops put down the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

An attached explanatory memorandum said that, in defiance of U.N. resolutions on that question, "free elections have not yet been held, large numbers of Soviet troops remain in Hungary, a general amnesty has not yet been granted" and no U.N. representatives have been let in to seek compliance with the resolutions.

164 Japanese Die In Typhoon

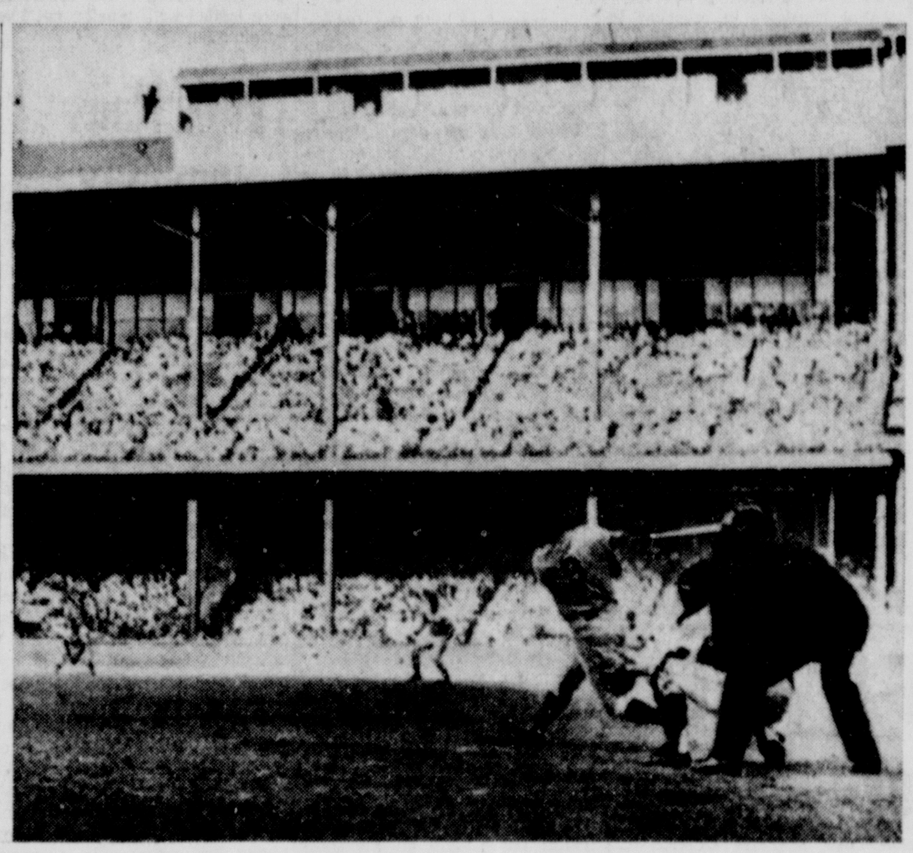

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Nancy, one of the most powerful storms ever to hit Japan, was losing itself in the northern Pacific Sunday after a two-day rampage through the country, leaving 164 persons known dead, 2,926 injured and 631,535 homeless.

Police reported 19 persons still missing in the typhoon that ripped through tiny Amami Oshima in the south, through Kyushu, Shikoku, the populous Kobe-Osaka area, Kyoto, a string of cities on the Japan Sea coast and through northern Honshu and Hokkaido. Destruction in public and private property ran into uncounted millions.

Police reported 10,453 homes destroyed, 29,963 badly damaged, 433 washed away, 260,000 flooded and 248,554 slightly damaged. The typhoon swept away bridges, broke seawalls at places, cut rail traffic at places, caused landslides, damaged roads at places and damaged nonresidential buildings beside interrupting communications at places.

Soviet Warns West On Plane Intrusions

Military Aircraft Over East Germany Will Be Shot Down

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union warned the West Sunday that military fighter craft straying over East German territory will be forced down or destroyed, by rockets if necessary.

Three Allied air corridors link West Berlin and West Germany across more than 100 miles of Communist East Germany.

Soviet Foreign Ministry notes to the United States, Britain, France, and West Germany referred to two U.S.-built F84 jet fighter-bombers of West Germany's air force which crossed the East German border in maneuvers last Thursday. The two finally landed at the French military airport, Tegel, in West Berlin.

(The East German regime demanded that the French hand over the two pilots, noncommissioned officers, for "a limited period" for investigation. France does not recognize East Germany and is expected to ignore the request.)

The Soviet notes scorned Western explanations that the flight resulted from technical troubles and denounced it as a "previously prepared provocation."

The notes, delivered by messengers at noon to the U.S., British, French, and West Germany embassies, did not limit the threat of destruction to West German fighters.

The purpose of the flight, in the Soviet view, was "to strain the world situation to the limit and to kill in the embryo any possibility of agreement between the interested states on acute international problems."

The notes charged that it was not the two pilots who had "lost their orientation," as Bonn said in a note of explanation to the four occupying powers, but "the highly placed military and political leaders of West Germany and those who stand behind them."

"The reckless adventure of sending two fighter-bombers of the Bundeswehr through the air space of the (East) German Democratic Republic is one of the most dangerous provocations which has been committed on the routes of communication with West Berlin and in West Berlin itself by the militaristic circles of the Federal (West) German Republic with the support of the occupation authorities of the Western powers."

Reds Demand Two Pilots Be Handed Over For Inquiry

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany called on the French Sunday to hand over "for a limited period" two West German pilots who made an emergency landing in West Berlin Thursday.

The pilots landed their F84 Thunderstreaks at Tegel Airport, in the French sector of West Berlin, and are being held by French authorities. France does not recognize East Germany and is expected to ignore the request.

ADN, the official East German news agency, said the request for the pilots was made by the East German Foreign Ministry to Gen. Jean Lacomme, who commands the French garrison. It explained that the pilots, two noncommissioned officers, are wanted for investigation.

Agreements between the Soviet Union and the Western Allies ban German military installations in Berlin. The Communist East German regime maintains troops and weapons there despite Western protests.

In recent weeks, the Communists have been complaining that the Western Allies misuse the air corridors that link West Berlin with the outside world. They are the only means of transport to the isolated city not yet subject to Communist police checks, and the Communists are eager to get more control of them.

The Communists accused the West German government of trying to worsen the situation in Europe and to torpedo preparations for talks between the Soviet Union and the Western powers. This is so obvious, the East German Foreign Ministry said, that no one takes seriously the explanation that the landings were accidental.

According to official Western accounts, the West German planes got lost in bad weather over Red-ruled East Germany on their way home from maneuvers in France.

GM Strike End By Wednesday UAW Objective

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union Sunday set a target date of next Wednesday to settle all its national and local issues for a new three-year contract with General Motors.

But hope dwindled that the world's largest auto maker would be able to get back to anything like normal production before another full week.

UAW President Walter Reuther and GM Vice-President Louis Seaton met in Sunday session to concentrate on a drive to hammer out more settlements of local plant issues which have been the main stumbling block to a full agreement, and which have caused strikes at GM factories across the country. So far, some 75 of GM's 130 plants have resolved all local problems, but all of them have not returned to work. Parts shortages caused by strikes at other plants have forced them to remain shut. All told, nearly 90 plants were still closed with about 238,000 workers idle.

Late Saturday night, the UAW top command moved to prod the holdout locals into quick settlement of their problems by calling a special meeting of the UAW's National GM Council for next Wednesday.

At that meeting, the council was expected to ratify a new GM contract covering both national and local issues. The Wednesday meeting serves to build a fire under the union negotiators at plants still struck because of local problems. Ratification of the contract by the National GM Council would wash out all unresolved local problems. The council would order all workers at all plants back to work.

Disaster Strikes Electra On Takeoff From Chicago Port

CHICAGO (AP) — A Northwest Airlines Electra — frantically radioing "no control" —spun out of the sky seconds after takeoff Sunday, struck a railroad embankment and exploded. All 37 aboard, including a mother and her four children, perished.

The prop-jet Electra — which witnesses said reached an altitude of 200 to 300 feet, then seemed to falter and lose power — had just left O'Hare International Airport when its right wingtip sheared through high tension wires about 1¼ miles from the end of the runway.

The wingtip then glanced off a 35-foot-high railway embankment, careened and bounced into the air. The Electra then exploded and ploughed some 800 feet through a pumpkin field, spewing burning bodies and plane parts.

The last words from the doomed airliner — preserved on a tape recorder in the airport control tower — were "no control," which Federal Aviation Agency officials said indicated the pilot had lost control of the craft.

Enveloped In Flames

One witness said the four-engine craft, carrying a crew of five and 32 passengers, burst into flames before the explosion. However, Nolan Miller, 33, of suburban Northlake, a construction worker at the airport, said: "I saw the right wing hit a high tension line just outside the airport boundary and the whole body of it lit up in a huge blue arc. Then it went down—enveloped in flames."

Other witnesses said they heard passengers screaming as the Florida-bound Electra hurtled to the ground southwest of O'Hare near suburban Bensenville.

Najeeb Halaby, Federal Aviation Agency administrator, said most of the conversation between the tower and the plane was routine. Halaby played back the recording for newsmen. The tower told the Electra, "Turn right after takeoff."

Then there was silence. Next a voice came on speaking raggedly and the final "no control." Halaby said the recording was rough because a conversation with another plane somehow intruded on the tape.

Halaby said technicians later will be able to unscramble the two voices.

78 Killed September 1

He said the tower reported the wheels of the Electra left the ground on takeoff at 8:56 a.m. and the plane achieved a maximum altitude of 300 feet and a speed of 150 to 160 miles an hour before faltering. Halaby placed the crash time at 8:57 a.m., a minute after wheels-up.

The crash was the second major airline disaster in the Chicago area this month. A Trans World Airlines Constellation plunged into a field near suburban Hinsdale Sept. 1, shortly after takeoff from Midway Airport, killing all 78 persons aboard.

Allan S. Boyd, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, said that "so far as we know, there were no malfunctions" in the Electra before it crashed.

"So far as we are able to tell, there was no reason to question the structural integrity of Electra aircraft," he added.

Halaby said: "There is no reason to believe there was any explosion within the aircraft that would be the result of a bomb or sabotage."

Federal authorities said the wreckage would be reassembled for a "painstaking analysis inside a hangar at either O'Hare or Midway airports."

Turkey Hangs Ousted Premier

ISTANBUL Turkey (AP)—Ousted Premier Adnan Menderes was hanged Sunday for crimes against the Turkish constitution which a court ruled were committed during 10 years of strongman rule.

The ex-prime minister, 62, once idolized in Turkey, followed two other top ministers in his former Cabinet to the gallows. Ex-Foreign Minister Fatin Rustu Zorlu and former Finance Minister Hassan Polatkan were executed early Saturday.

They were convicted with Menderes after a 10-month trial before a revolutionary court of violating the constitution.

Menderes took an overdose of sleeping pills after hearing the verdict and his execution was delayed until medical examiners could rule that he was fit.

A team of physicians treated him through the weekend, and a communique issued by the ruling National Unity Committee said he was found to be completely recovered by a six-man medical team headed by Dr. Sejat Tavat. Turkish law prohibits executing a man who is not in his right mind or too ill to stand.

Foster Parents Lead Police To Body Of Girl, 5, They Say Strangled On Wire

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Foster parents Sunday led authorities to the body of a 5-year-old girl, dumped in a gully after the couple said she had strangled on wire used to bind her for disciplinary purposes.

The child, Carolyn Page, was a court ward of Clarence Van Buren, 40, and his wife, Ruth, 41. The girl was given into their care because she had been mistreated by her own mother.

Sheriff's deputies said the Van Burens led them to a brushy, oceanfront section where the body of the child was found where it had been dumped down a bank, 30 feet from the highway. The body was wrapped loosely in a flannel blanket.

The Van Burens signed a statement in Wenatchee, Wash., Saturday saying the child died Aug. 13. They were brought here Saturday night. The body was taken to the San Diego County coroner's office.

Van Buren and his wife then were taken to Los Angeles as the child died in their home near there at La Mirada.

Los Angeles Sheriff's Sgt. Bart Duesler said the Van Burens told him Carolyn had been misbehaving, that "she was a child that had to be disciplined." The officer said they told him they put her in an empty bathtub, wired her hands to her body with television antenna wire and tied the wire to the shower head. The Van Burens said they went out, and when they returned six hours later Carolyn was wound up in the wire and strangled.

The Van Burens were traced to Washington when they gave an insufficient check for a trailer in Bellflower, Calif. They were arrested there last Thursday on a charge of giving a check with insufficient funds.

Carolyn Page, her sister, Dovie, 2, and a brother, Glenn Allen, 3, were being cared for by the Van Burens who received $239 a month from Los Angeles County for these services. The couple had Dovie and Glenn Allen with them, as well as their only newly adopted 3-month-old baby, when they were arrested in Washington.

The Page children were nearly killed 16 months ago when their mother, Jayne Schwartz of San Diego, cut their wrists and left them in a parked car in San Pedro, Calif. A passing motorist saved their lives. Mrs. Schwartz then was declared an unfit mother and the children were placed with the Van Burens.

Russia Detonates Another A-Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia exploded another atomic bomb of intermediate yield over Central Asia Sunday, the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission announced. It was the 12th of the renewed Soviet tests.

The brief AEC announcement said the blast occurred over Semipalatinsk, where the other lower-yield blasts have taken place. The only time given was early Sunday, Washington time.

Irish Press Questions Validity Of U.N. Action

DUBLIN (AP) — The spectacle of Irish soldiers embroiled in the Congo bloodshed roused horror in their homeland Sunday and touched off doubts about Ireland's willingness to keep her troops under the United Nations flag.

Newspapers showed skepticism about the merits of the U.N. case in trying to force the Katanga regime of President Moishe Tshombe back into the fold of the central government in Leopoldville.

Commentators largely echoed the view of Prime Minister Sean Lemass, who said Friday Ireland had dispatched its troops to the Congo to preserve peace and order and "not to impose any particular solution."

Foreign Minister Frank Aiken, who was sent to Leopoldville for an on-the-spot investigation, cabled home that Irish morale was high and "reports of casualties to the U.N. forces in Katanga have been grossly exaggerated."

He mentioned specifically only 41 Irishmen who are dead, wounded or captured. Of these, only three were killed.

The Defense Department made public this cable.

The Congo conflict broke last week just as Irish factions were shaping up for a battle on the domestic political front.

Lemass ordered an election on the issue of Ireland's economic future—whether this island nation should join the European Common Market.

Political sources here said the major parties are unlikely to make campaign hay out of the Congo turbulence.

West Europe Currencies Strongest In 47 Years

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The directors of the International Monetary Fund reported Sunday night that Western European currencies are probably in a stronger position than at any time since the period before World War I.

The IMF executive board released its annual report as representatives of 73 nations assembled in Vienna for annual meetings of the boards of governors of the fund, the World Bank, the International Finance Corporation, and the International Development Association. Most of the governors are finance or treasury ministers of member countries.

In their 200-page report, the IMF directors said they are considering arrangements for borrowing additional currency from members to prepare well in advance for any world payment emergency.

The directors said IMF resources of $15 billion "should be sufficient for most situations that the fund might have to meet."

But the directors made clear they are worried about the "new phenomenon in the postwar world" of large-scale movements of short-term capital. These movements, the directors said, are the result of the introduction of convertibility of most West European currencies and "the three years of large deficits in the U.S. balance of payments, with substantial increases in reserves in Europe, leading to a situation of strength of European currencies that had probably not been equaled since 1914."

Dillon Believes Buildup Kills Tax Cut Hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said Sunday America's military buildup to meet the Berlin crisis virtually killed any chance of a tax cut next year. He said no tax boost would be needed unless additional mobilization was ordered.

Dillon said the government would wind up the current bookkeeping year next June 30 about $6 billion in the red. But he said President Kennedy was sticking to his pledge to present a balanced budget for the following year.

The secretary said the federal deficit did not pose a serious threat of inflation because the nation had substantial unemployment and idle plant capacity.

Dillon said the administration had hoped for a 1962 tax cut before the Berlin crisis required an extra $3 billion in military spending.

Now, he said, "I doubt that it will be possible to have a tax reduction next year."

On a brighter note, the cabinet member said America's loss of gold in international trade had been cut from an annual rate of more than $3.5 billion to an annual rate of between $1.5 billion and $2 billion.

Questioned by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., in a radio-TV interview, Dillon echoed Kennedy's plea for the nation's steel companies to hold their prices steady lest they spark a new round of inflation.

Man Fires Gun In Parade, Hits Mule, Fined $35

MIDDLETOWN, Del. (AP) — Earl Smith, 70, of Perryville, Md., has been fined $35 for firing a revolver in Middletown's centennial parade and wounding a mule.

Magistrate Sudler H. King also ordered Smith, a former Hollywood stunt man, not to carry a firearm for one year.

Smith had pleaded guilty Friday to discharging a firearm upon a public highway during the parade Aug. 26.

He was dressed in a cowboy outfit and riding a wagon pulled by two matched mules when he started firing a pair of .45-caliber Colt revolvers. Parade officials said they thought the revolvers were loaded with blanks, not live ammunition.

Tawes Hails Community College Role

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Sunday the community college will play "an increasingly important role in our broad program of public higher education."

Tawes made the remark in an address at the opening convocation of the new Anne Arundel Community College in Severna Park. The college opens its doors to some 200 students Monday.

"There was never a doubt in the minds of any of us that community colleges, such as this one you have established here in Anne Arundel County, would play an increasingly important role in our broad program of public higher education," the Governor said.

"In fact, it is generally acknowledged that the junior or community college, a nonresidendential institution, offers the best means of achieving higher education of good quality without imposing an unbearable financial burden upon the people of the state."

The governor said he was pleased to sign two bills dealing with community colleges passed by the past session of the General Assembly.

One, he said, authorizes local boards of education to establish community colleges subject to approval by the state superintendent of schools and the board of education. This same measure also says how such colleges will be administered and raises the state's contribution to one-third of the operating costs up to $225 per student.

The other measure creates a state debt of $5 million to supplement the cost of construction of public community colleges.

Legislature Call Urged To Assist Jailed Negroes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes has been asked to call a special session of the legislature to aid three Philadelphia Negroes being held in Cecil County jail on trespass charges.

The Maryland State Conference of NAACP branches, meeting in Baltimore Saturday, voted to urge the governor to call the legislature into session so that public accommodation legislation could be enacted.

In a letter to the governor, the group, representing 20 counties and Baltimore City, asked that " . . . you make it an administration measure and put the full force and weight of your office behind it. The continuing humiliation of American citizens and visitors from other countries solely because of their race cannot be tolerated."

The three defendants being held are Wallace F. Nelson, his wife, Juanita, and a friend, Mrs. Rose Robinson. They were charged with trespassing after they allegedly refused to leave a restaurant on U. S. 40 when they were denied service.

The defendants have been on a hunger strike since their Sept. 6 arrest. The county sheriff's office said force feeding of the prisoners would be undertaken when a doctor rules the prisoners are becoming too weak.

Saturday's letter to Tawes also said, "Three human beings are fasting in our Elkton jail in a religious protest against their inhuman mistreatment because of their race by a restaurant owner in the great 'free state of Maryland.'

"It will be a shame and a disgrace to the entire civilized world if we sit by and let them die," the group said.

The Maryland chapter also sent a letter to Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., requesting him to use his influence on behalf of the three defendants.

Rees Trial Opens Today

SPOTSYLVANIA, Va. (AP)—This tiny farming community made famous nearly 100 years ago as warring troops criss-crossed its fields and woods becomes the scene of another battle Monday.

It will be a quieter engagement, fought inside Spotsylvania County's yellow brick courthouse, but none the less deadly.

The State of Virginia will attempt to prove that a wandering jazz musician named Melvin Davis Rees Jr. murdered a feed truck driver named Carroll Vernon Jackson Jr.

That is the specific charge in the trial, but the implications are much broader. Not only was the 29-year-old Jackson slain, but his entire family as well.

Virginia has also charged Rees with killing Jackson's 18-month-old daughter, Janet Carroll, whose body was found with his in a brush pile in this county. Maryland has charged him with the murder of Jackson's wife, Mildred, 27, and another daughter, Susan Ann, 5. Their bodies were discovered in a shallow grave near Gambrills, Md.

Earlier this year a Baltimore Federal Court judge sentenced Rees to two life terms for the kidnap-slaying of Mrs. Jackson and Susan under the Lindbergh Law.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has sought evidence that might connect the 32-year-old Hyattsville, Md., musician with at least four other murder cases.

The Jackson family disappeared on a wintry night, Jan. 11, 1959, not long after leaving the home of Mrs. Jackson's parents in Bumpass.

A widespread search for the Jacksons followed, and ended with the accidental discovery of the two bodies in Spotsylvania two months later, and the two in Maryland a few weeks after that.

5 Meet Death On Md. Roads

By The Associated Press

Maryland highway accidents resulted in five deaths this weekend, bringing the statewide total for the year to 292, compared with 372 at the same time last year.

Among the victims were two brothers killed in separate accidents Saturday morning, only three hours apart, and at almost the same place in Prince Georges County.

The first brother, Kenneth E. Moore, 19, of Upper Marlboro, was killed on U. S. 301 near his home when his car struck a signal light post. The other brother, Louis L. Moore, 22, also of Upper Marlboro, was killed while en route to inform his sister of the first tragedy. Moore's car collided with a tractor-trailer truck.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)—Eight cars toward the rear of a long Pennsylvania Railroad freight train were derailed early Sunday at a crossing, delaying passenger traffic for a time on all three tracks of the line's New York-Washington route.

Esther's Course Still Uncertain

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Esther, the most violent storm of the season so far, boiled onward Sunday in the general direction of the U. S. mainland, but weathermen were uncertain if she would strike the Atlantic seaboard.

Ships at Bermuda, the Virgin Islands and north Puerto Rico were warned to stay in port to avoid heavy sea swells kicked up by Esther, now a "large and very dangerous" storm packing 150-mile-an-hour winds.

The Miami Weather Bureau said Esther was churning to the north-northwest at 14 mph from an area 890 miles east of Miami, 450 miles north of San Juan, P.R.

Four Harrisburg, Pa., Boys Held In Holdup

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Police arrested four South Harrisburg youths Sunday and charged them with armed robbery in connection with a series of rapid-fire holdups since Friday night.

The youths also were being questioned in connection with a number of other robberies in recent months in the Harrisburg area, police said.

The charges were filed against Charles Guringo, 18, David Drawbaugh, 19, Ronald Richwine, 19, and Lamont Maloney, 19.

Cuba Deports Bishop, 135 Other Churchmen

HAVANA (UPI) — The Fidel Castro regime Sunday deported Eduardo Boza Masvidal, bishop of Havana, and 135 other Roman Catholic priests in the wake of what it charged was church-led anti-government rioting.

The churchmen, 46 of them Cubans and the rest Spanish, were escorted by police aboard the Spanish liner "Covadonga" which salied from Havana at noon for Spain.

Hopes Rise

The United Nations said the 500 Negro troops besieging a 150-man Irish garrison in that cobalt and copper center 60 miles north of Elisabethville had mutinied against their white officers late Saturday and joined the Irish in a truce. They gave the hungry garrison food and cooperated in establishing patrols to keep order.

In Dublin, the Irish government said Sunday night it received word that the Irish garrison at Jadotville had been overwhelmed by "vastly superior forces" of Katangans. The government said the drastic change in the Jadotville situation had been reported from the Congo by Lt. Gen. Sean McKeown, Irish commander of U.N. forces in the Congo.

MAKE SURE

they'll all go to college

All your children will go to college — if you plan ahead financially. Today's average family consists of mom, dad and three children. If you fit into this picture, and your children are about two years apart, you'll have someone in school for 25 years . . . if they all have a college education. First Federal has complete information on how — by saving monthly — you can provide college education for your children. In fact, First Federal helps things along by adding consistently higher earnings, currently 3½% per annum. In many cases, these earnings alone can amount to one year's college expenses.

Stop in this week and let a First Federal savings officer set up college education funds for your children.

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠K 4 ♥A J 2 ♦Q 9 8 6 ♣Q J 4 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♣	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five diamonds. Heretofore you have made two minimum rebids, and it is incumbent upon you to show that you have a really good diamond raise rather than a mere preference, in view of the fact that your cards have become enhanced in value.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠A K J 5 ♥A K 10 6 ♦J 10 9 5 ♣3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. Don't make the mistake of bidding two hearts merely to show a second biddable suit. The double will serve every practical purpose. It will help you to determine whether to play the hand at spades, hearts, or diamonds, or might possibly enable partner to pass for penalties now that he knows you have opened on values beyond the minimum.

Q 3.—As South you hold:
♠7 5 ♥Q 9 6 ♦K 5 4 2 ♣A J 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
2 ♥	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—There can be no doubt that your destination is a slam of some kind which you could hardly fail to reach opposite a two bid. In order to determine the full potentialities of the hand, it is better to settle the trump suit first by an immediate raise to three hearts. This permits the ace showing to start. On the next round you will show the ace of clubs and if partner shows the ace of diamonds you will indicate possession of the king, providing partner with complete information as to your holding.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠Q J 10 5 4 ♥K 3 2 ♦A K J 10 ♣4
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Three hearts. The direct raise is much superior to inviting complications by bidding your other suit.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠J 10 3 2 ♥A Q 5 3 2 ♦4 2 ♣5 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♦	?

What action do you take?

A.—Two spades. This hand is worth just one constructive bid. It would therefore, be poor tactics to bid two hearts which would necessitate a subsequent raise in spades. Such action would describe a much stronger hand.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠K J 5 4 2 ♥6 5 ♦8 3 2 ♣9 7 6
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♥	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Despite the five trumps, you have not sufficient values for a free raise. Your hand is worth scarcely six points.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠A K Q 7 4 ♥K 6 4 2 ♦K 9 ♣3 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

What is your rebid?

A.—Four hearts. A double raise is in order since this hand is worth 18 points in support of hearts. A single raise would not do justice to your holding.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠J 2 ♥K J 6 3 ♦A K J 9 3 ♣4 3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♣

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You have a minimum hand and should take no voluntary action even though you are in position to rebid at a low level.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—That Mexican dinner party British producer Euan Lloyd hosted in his apartment the other night attended by Sue and Alan Ladd, among others, was not completely social. Alan and Lloyd were celebrating the deal they've just signed for Alan to star in a story bought by Euan, "When the Tiger Roars."

What surprises me is that Alan has been talked into making the war drama abroad, in Euan's native England.

When the Ladds were in Italy and Yugoslavia while he was making "Horatio" they ran into so many troubles of every description, icy cold locations, the company running short of money, weeks and weeks of delays, that Alan swore he'd never work again outside of Hollywood. Euan must have done a good selling job.

I've been writing about motion pictures for—oh, well, I'm not going to tell how long—but I've never seen choreography comparable to the excellently executed scenes in "West Side Story." Jerome Robbins, choreographer and co-director, can bow from the waist down. And while the bowing is going on, Robert Wise, producer and co-director can share in the honors of one of the finest motion pictures to come out of Hollywood.

The panavision 70 technicolor offers a very wide screen, and makes you a part of the violent battles in the young gang war, the dances, and the scenic atmosphere. The opening scenes, showing a panorama of New York, are indescribable in their magnitude. The Mirisch picture is infinitely better than the Broadway show.

The Leonard Bernstein music and the Stephen Sondheim lyrics are, of course, classical. Every one of the stars is good. Natalie Wood must have worked hard to perfect her dances, and her dramatic scenes are excellent. Rita Moreno has a whole new career—she's that good. George Chakiris is reborn as a star. He and Russ Tamblyn show perfection in their dancing. Richard Beymer attains stature as an actor. I don't know who dubbed some of the voices, but the singing is too good to believe that all the young people did it themselves.

Had luncheon with Joni James and Tony Acquaviva, and Tony is feeling fit again. They leave the 30th of this month for New York, where Tony is booked to record a pop symphony concert with 150 men.

In early October they fly to Frankfurt and Cologne, Germany, where they will put on a show for the armed forces. I asked them if they weren't nervous about Germany now, but they say they feel that if it were dangerous they wouldn't be allowed to go.

From Germany they go to London. Joni will do several television shows, then they'll give concerts in the British provinces—returning to their home in Beverly Hills in November.

Remember the headlines in the newspapers about a year ago that Princess Margaretha of Sweden was engaged to marry Robin Douglas-Home British jazz piano player? The Queen of Sweden put her foot down, in spite of the fact that Home comes from a very aristocratic family—his uncle is Lord Home, the head of foreign affairs in London.

Well, Robin Douglas-Home and his bride are now the house guests of Gloria and Michael Romanoff. They were in a party of six at Romanoff's with their hosts, and guess who the other two were—Frank Sinatra and Marilyn Monroe, having more fun! Frank has started a new fad of having dinner in the bar.

Twenty - one - year - old Victoria Wilder, Billy's daughter by a previous marriage, was married in San Francisco last Tuesday to Firenzio Gardin. Victoria and her bridegroom are arriving tomorrow to spend the weekend with her father and his attractive wife Audrey. This will be Billy's introduction to his new son-in-law.

Meanwhile, Billy is busy editing and scoring "One, Two, Three," while waiting for Horst Buchholz to recover sufficiently to return to Hollywood.

After a long absence, Gladys Robinson (the ex-Mrs. Eddie G.) is back in town with her collection of paintings and sculpture considerably enhanced by the art treasures she has acquired in Europe. "Nothing is for sale," Gladys says, "the collection will be used only for charity exhibitions."

She also told me that before she left Rome, her own clothes designer, Gattinoni told her that he has been given the job of making the costumes designed by Irene Schaff for Elizabeth Taylor in "Cleopatra" and Gladys says these are the most elaborate costumes ever seen on the screen.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

I do hope this is exaggerated. I'm told that Bob Wagner's steady date in London is Linda Christian!

Jeffrey Selznick, whom I have known since he was born, is visiting his father David Selznick. Jeffrey lives in Geneva, Switzerland, is in the banking business, owns a beautiful home, and is a bachelor!

Jerry Ohrbach, actor in "Carnival," happily married and an expectant father, writes and asks me to please say he is not the wealthy Jerry Ohrbach, department store owner, who is getting a divorce.

Vic Damone, who is doing very, very well with his TV and nightclub appearances, has just bought a house in Beverly Hills. I hope he'll have me over when he makes lasagne. Nobody does it as well.

Met Gus Lampe, who for years was the popular manager of the Ambassador Hotel. He tells me that not only has he bought the Arizona Manor in Phoenix, but with some associates has acquired the Highway House Hotels in Houston, Tulsa, Tucson and San Diego. With George at the helm, they'll all do well.

Doesn't seem possible that it's time for the arrival of Anne Baxter's baby. Although Dr. Leon Krohn says it wasn't due until the 22nd of this month, Anne is sure it will arrive sooner, so her husband Randolph Gelt hurried from Australia to be with her.

A nice honor for Marusia, one of Hollywood's leading designers, who has been chosen to present a fashion show for the tubercular relief at the Civic Opera House in Chicago. Mausia was home long enough only to take off her hat, having been in Europe for some weeks.

Skip Ward, who is in the Gertrude Berg TV series "Mrs. G. goes to College" at Four Star, is upset over the item that he married Michele Triola, Las Vegas showgirl. Michele was just as upset because Jeffrey Stone is her favorite man.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

The removal of the machines will provide vitally needed space for storage of county supplies and office quarters for the County Sanitary Commission.

Taxpayer Group Names Co-Chairmen

Harry Kauffman and Robert Little Ebert have been elected co-chairmen of the recently-organized Cumberland Taxpayers and Property Owners League.

Robert Petersen was named secretary-treasurer of the unit.

The committee which will conduct the organization will include Kauffman and Ebert and A. W. Tindal, John Mosner, John Geare, Karl Bachman, S. Louis Curl, C. M. Sanner and Sam Moses.

Kauffman will draw up a set of by-laws for the league which will be acted upon at the next meeting in October.

The league is working on a study of assessments, city traffic and parking and other planning problems.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Thursday discussed plans for a cocktail party and buffet for the Maryland Municipal League when it convenes here October 26, 27 and 28. The Chamber is sponsoring the session of the league here.

Oilmen Switch To Diamond Mining

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) —Two American oilmen are investigating a scheme to mine diamonds from the bottom of the sea off the coast of South West Africa.

The men, Emerson Kailey, of Freeport Ill., and Sam Collins of Port Lavaca, Tex., plan to invest heavily in the $5,600,000 venture.

"It is a speculative venture," Kailey said. "American British and South African interests are participating."

The men hope to mine diamonds at depths of 100 feet and up to 3 miles offshore. The site they intend prospecting borders the famed diamond coast of South West Africa, where diamonds are literally found on the beaches.

Collins said this type of mining had never been attempted.

"We will put down a rubber pipe and will agitate the sea bottom with jets of air. Then we suck the soil on deck, a sort of giant vacuum cleaner," he said.

Collins is the head of a submarine engineering concern currently laying an oil pipeline from the Sahara to France, under the Mediterranean.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to speak out against an irresponsible, moronic member of our modern society called The Sitter.

I have three children under 10 years of age. Because my husband's business requires that we go out a great deal I am at the mercy of these hollow-headed, impudent, always-hungry, human vacuum cleaners with teeth. In the past six months I've had no less than a dozen, so I speak with authority.

They are interested only in the location of the refrigerator, the earliest possible moment at which they can throw the children in bed, the overtime rates for after midnight, does the TV work, and where's the telephone?

It infuriates me that these little idiots are able to make several dollars a week for just dragging their sloppy frames into a nice home, eating everything in sight and performing no service other than being on hand to call the fire department if the house should catch on fire.

It will be the happiest day of my life when my oldest daughter becomes 12 years of age. You said that's the age when children can safely be left alone.—SICK OF SITTERS

DEAR SICK: It's not fair to label all sitters "irresponsible and moronic." Some sitters are conscientious young girls who perform their duties with pride.

If you've had a dozen hollow-headed ones in six months there's something wrong with your ability to select — or you're willing to settle for any girl who has two arms, two legs and one head.

If you're unable to hire a girl with good references, then hire an older woman — with good references.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband left me and our baby son two years ago. He has not supported us and I've had to move in with my mother and go to work. He has a good paying job but he's mean and spiteful. Whenever I call him about support money he says he'll rot in jail first. I've pleaded with him for a divorce but he says "No. I'm happy the way things are."

A man I work with has fallen in love with me. He has connections in a foreign country and plans to leave for there in December. He wants to take me and the boy with him. He says nobody need know that we are not married. He will buy me a wedding ring, introduce me as his wife and change the boy's last name to his.

It all sounds so positively wonderful that there must be some sort of hitch in it. Please give me some advice.—JERI

DEAR JERI: The hitch, my dear, is that you are a married woman. Your husband could have you stopped by the immigration authorities and prevent you from taking his child out of the country. He could also prove that you are an unfit mother and get custody of the boy.

Why don't you put your lawyers on your husband's tail and see how badly he wants to rot in jail? This makes more sense than trying to scram out of the country under a cloud of lies.

CONFIDENTIAL TO NO EYES LEFT: That makes two of us. You said you could write a book. Well, you almost did. If you must cry over spilled milk will you please condense it?

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Would Boost Costs

WASHINGTON—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said new rates proposed by the FCC would boost press leased wire costs 19 per cent and cut government costs nearly eight per cent. AT&T told the FCC that new tariff schedules prescribed and authorized by the federal agency for leased wire services were "unsound" in many respects and would "work great hardships on many customers."

New Post Office Will Be Built At Grantsville

Bids Are Sought Under Lease Plan

GRANTSVILLE — Progress toward construction of a new and modern Post Office building at Grantsville has been announced by Michael Monroney, executive assistant to the Postmaster General.

"President Kennedy has called for an accelerated postal construction program this year as a spur to the economy," Mr. Monroney said. "The post office that will be constructed here will not only benefit the community by way of more efficient postal service but will help to implement the President's program."

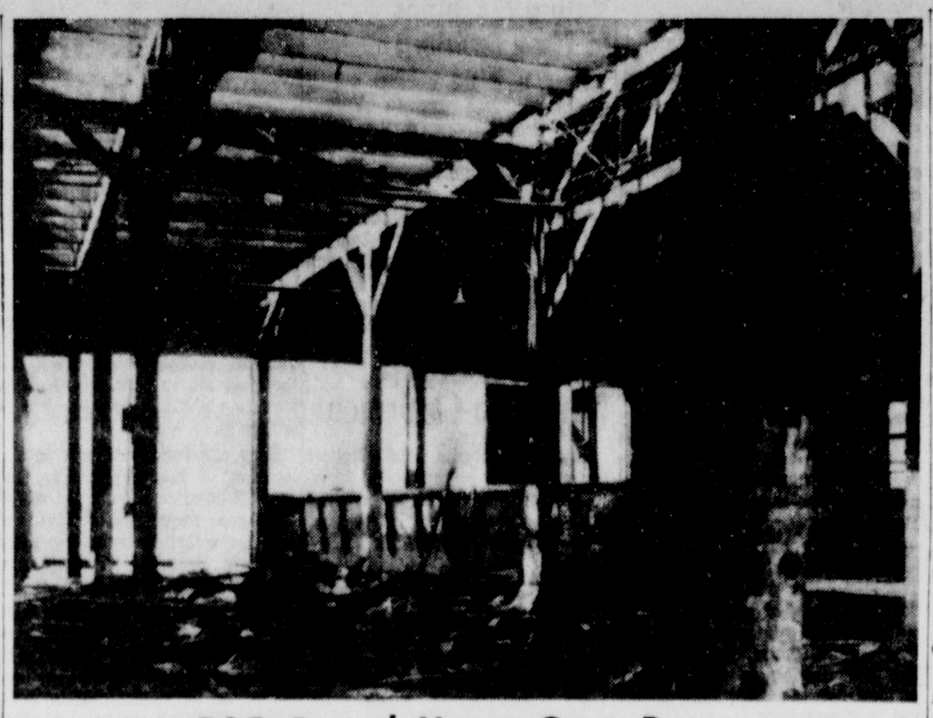

He said the Post Office Department is seeking competitive bids to build and lease the new post office to be located on the north side of Main Street. The site contains approximately 11,539 square feet.

The building will contain 2,223 square feet of interior floor space, and ample paved parking and maneuvering area is provided.

Under the department's Commercial Leasing Program, the site will be assigned to the successful bidder, who will purchase the land, construct the building to departmental specifications and rent it to the Post Office Department for a basic period of 10 years, with renewal options.

The Department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership, with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Bids should be submitted to K. Wayne Swiger, real estate officer, Room 311-313, Post Office Building, Clarksburg, W. Va., before October 14. The Real Estate Officer will supply bidding forms, building specifications, lease provisions and other information.

Sailor Charged With Murder In Pastor's Death

Minister Has Been Missing For Weeks

FAYETTEVILLE, W.Va. (UPI) —A South Carolina sailor now awaits Fayette County grand jury action in the death of the Rev. Julius Keaton, the missing Huntington minister whose body was found Saturday in a wooded area near Oak Hill.

Authorities placed murder charges against Williard E. Graham, 19, of Patrick, S. C., shortly after the remains were found. The youth, reportedly AWOL from the Navy, has admitted beating the minister.

Graham waived to the grand jury and was placed in the Fayette County jail here Saturday. A hearing to discuss bond was expected to be held later this week.

Keaton had been missing for about five weeks after leaving Huntington by car on a trip to Princeton. The remains were found Saturday afternoon by Robert Berry of Huntington, a grandnephew of the victim, who was conducting a search on his own.

Graham was connected with the case last week when the minister's car was found at his parent's home in Patrick. The sailor then waived extradition and was returned to the Mountain State to see if he could lead authorities to the spot where he left Keaton. He said Keaton had picked him up while he was hitch-hiking to South Carolina.

However, after arriving in West Virginia Friday, Graham failed to come up with the spot. But Saturday, after being told where the body had been found, State Police took the youth to that general area.

Graham's memory was then apparently jogged, since he immediately led the officers to where the remains were. He showed little emotion.

Manhole Covers And The Cold War

A Massachusetts manufacturer has sprinkled reality with humor in marketing a $4.20 gadget to lift manhole covers in the event of nuclear attack. The idea is that most people are not concerned sufficiently over the possibility of an attack to provide their own shelters and thus in the event of an emergency there will be no haven for most other than municipal water and sewer tunnels.

There is something almost fatalistic in the attitude that prompted the marketing of a manhole cover lifter, and one can see similar doubts on the faces of many neighbors. If the free world's anxiety has risen in recent months, it is because Soviet belligerency has reached a point of irresponsibility.

It is true that Khrushchev could unleash a nuclear attack upon the United States. There is reason to believe his weapons are not as accurate or as plentiful as those developed in the U.S., but there is no doubt that he does possess them and has the capability to deliver them.

Twanging on western nerves is a favorite pastime of Kremlin strategists. The Russian dictator is well aware of the arsenal of retaliatory, nuclear-armed missiles pointed toward his cities from bases in North America and Europe. But he also knows they will never be used except in retaliation, and this is his trump card.

All his threats are made in the expectation of shaking loose a particle of western solidarity, a piece of courage or a splinter of resistance. It is safe to predict, however — American nerves having grown accustomed to cold war tactics — that sales of manhole cover lifters will be short of phenomenal.

Why not export them to the Soviet Union? The possibility that a market exists for anything related to radioactive fallout in Russia might be startling to the commisars. It might even impress upon them the seriousness of the war campaigns they promote so carelessly.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Neutralists

As one looked at the Belgrade Conference, it was impossible not to wonder who was there. What did these nations represent in product? What are the standards of living of their people? What military strength do they possess? For instance, take Mali and Indonesia, the presidents of which came to Washington to tell the President of the United States what he should not do. Actually what is the strength of these two countries? What power do they possess?

The so-called neutral or non-aligned countries have hypnotized themselves into believing that because they are weak and ineffectual and backward, they possess great moral strength. Is moral strength limited to those who have no other strength?

I am minded of a story of Israel Zangwill's of the king of the beggars. It ran something like this: The king of beggars came to the Rothschild house in London and demanded to see Rothschild. The butler turned him away. So the king of the beggars yelled and shouted and his argument was that Rothschild is the richest man in the world and he is the poorest man in the world, therefore they are equal because each is the ultimate in his sphere.

The neutral nations seem to take that attitude: they have nothing and they amount to nothing; therefore they are morally supreme. But at Belgrade only Nehru had the courage to take a noble moral attitude. Both Tito and Sukarno displayed unbelievable cowardice and the Conference itself dared not pass a resolution condemning Khrushchev for entering upon a new era of bomb frightening.

He is not testing bombs for scientific purposes. He is using the bomb as a child uses firecrackers, to scare the weak and helpless. He is like the fellow who throws a firecracker into a tin can to make a lot of noise. Whatever should have been said, the Belgrade Conference did not say. It watched the clown play with his firecrackers and those present showed that they were not afraid. Of whom were they not afraid? They are not afraid of the United States.

But the United States is not scaring them. In fact, the United States had not fired a single bomb during the period that Khrushchev is exploding them every time there is a meeting. So why should the Belgrade Conference equate the United States as being as evil as Soviet Russia?

The reason: these men of high moral quality have no morality when it concerns Soviet Russia. They are frightened of the bully. They live in fear of Khrushchev's anger.

Apparently one of the brilliant solutions to all our present troubles is to move the United Nations from New York to Berlin. That would make Berlin a neutral city; it would also solve the problems of those African and Asiatic representatives who have troubles with New York hotel and restaurant managers. This great idea emanates, one is told, from the intellect of Hugh Gaitskill, leader of the Labour Party and prospective Prime Minister of Great Britain. Did Gaitskill ever think of the possibility of the United States declining to go to the United Nations in Berlin? Does he realize that it would take a simple act of Congress for the United States to refuse to go to Berlin? Let the Africans run the United Nations and pay its bills.

Then, the highly moralistic weak and backward nations will discover that without the protection of the United States, they would sink to semi-colonies of Soviet Russia, little slaves to the Kremlin, instructed from day to day.

Apparently Nehru sees what is ahead and refuses to be led any further by the nose. He stood out at Belgrade, a courageous monumental figure who speaks without fear and whose words were applauded even by those who dared not vote as Nehru would have them vote. In a word, the applause for Nehru's speech is a thermometer of what is in the souls of the delegates, not what is on their tongues. And so, Belgrade came and went and produced nothing tangible. Two members went to Khrushchev and two to Kennedy and the four accomplished nothing because Khrushchev finds it politically necessary to frighten the world and Kennedy declines to be frightened.

This then is where the world stands today and it is not at all good.

Proof Of Soviet Spacemen Flights Still Lacking

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Whether Gagarin and Titov, the Soviet spacemen, actually circled the earth or whether they merely parachuted to earth from a previously fixed location after a satellite had gone around the globe has not been conclusively proved as yet. But high officials here say that the American project whereby a "simulated astronaut" traveled around the earth in orbit this week proves that it is theoretically possible that the Soviets didn't actually put a man on the two satellites as claimed.

Officially the course of the government here is not to express any doubts on the subject. This is a wise bit of diplomacy. But it is conceded privately that proof of the alleged flights by Gagarin and Titov is still lacking. As one space expert put it: "They may have had a man in their satellites and he may never have been ejected, or it may have crashed and someone else could have parachuted from a fixed location and claimed to have gone around the world himself."

A comparison of what was done by the American satellite this week and what Major Gagarin did follows:

	Artificial Astronaut	Gagarin
Time of flight	1 hr. 49 min.	1 hr. 48 min.
Altitude	158.6 mi., max.	188 mi., max
Speed	17,500 MPH	17,500 MPH
Orbit	Once around the earth	Once around the earth

The artificial astronaut was constructed so it could breathe, sweat and talk just like a human being, and, except for two minor defects, it did just that.

Ground stations throughout the world monitored the flight of the American capsule and kept a close check on its progress. The artificial astronaut was a small, grey box of instruments three feet high, two feet wide, and one foot thick. It was laced with hoses, pipes and wires designed to put the same load on the capsule's environmental control system as a man would. In fact, three main purposes were fulfilled:

1. Oxygen was inhaled and carbon dioxide was exhaled, and this filled the cabin with heat and moisture, creating conditions comparable to a man breathing.

2. A man's body heat was simulated by an electrical heating element which indicated the capsule temperature a man might endure.

3. Pre-recorded messages were played back from two tape recorders designed to permit an evaluation of the whole communications system.

The messages were similar to those an astronaut himself might make in flight. The voice was that of assistant flight director Howard Kyle. He used the same sort of words as astronauts would employ in actual flight to test the space-to-ground radio.

All around the world the tracking stations listened. One minute after the launching the signals began to come in loud and clear. A station in Australia was the last to have contact with the voice tapes. As there developed a technical difficulty which can be remedied. There was also a slight leak in the oxygen system.

Other radio instruments on board did send back information on vibration, acceleration and temperature in the capsule. This, of course, wasn't pre-recorded but was provided simultaneously by scientific instruments.

A special color movie camera, automatically operated, was placed in one of the portholes to photograph the view. Another camera was pointed through a periscope, and a third snapped shots of readings on the instrument panels.

In addition, there were some devices aboard which can be operated either automatically or by a human astronaut. Thus, the spacecraft turned itself into the proper position in orbit when it first reached outer space. Also, the on-board timing mechanism was geared to trigger the retro-rockets which slowed the capsule after completing its orbit and sent it into a planned target area in the Atlantic Ocean near Bermuda. The capsule, with all the scientific instruments in it intact, was recovered.

Just before the flight, the information chief at Cape Canaveral said: "It's supposed to do everything a man could do." Apparently the artificial astronaut did just that.

What does it all prove? It demonstrates that manned and unmanned flights around the world are feasible. But there is still no proof that either Gagarin or Titov did it. Indeed, there is a suspicion that they were trained to come down in a parachute at a given spot and that neither one really had circled the earth. This suspicion arises from the strange things they were quoted afterwards as saying which do not stand up on a scientific basis—such as the claim of Titov that he was able to distinguish plowed from unplowed fields at a distance of 160 miles up in the air.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FAR-AWAY LOOK — This is the time of year on Capitol Hill when Senators and Congressmen get a far-away look in their eyes. It's not that they're longing for home, now that adjournment time is near; it's that those trips to far away places they've planned all year are about to come true.

These "working" tours are considered as vacations by the legislators, although they are always paid by the government. Moreover, they gring the little woman along and somehow manage to keep her out-of-pocket expenses at a minimum — usually zero.

For instance, 38 Senators have dates in such cities as London, Paris and Brussels to attend conferences on the instructions of the Senate. These meetings are the Interparliamentary Union in Brussels in late September; the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association ending in October and the NATO Parliamentary Conference in November.

The Senate will pick up the $60,000 in expenses expected to be rung up by its members at these three meetings, although the Senators can attend the working sessions as they desire.

House members also have been "instructed" to attend these meetings. And many other members of both bodies have constituted themselves as sub-committees to "inspect" every conceivable U. S. establishment and program in Europe, Asia and South America. All of these travels, of course, constitute official Congressional business and the government foots the bill.

Despite the boondoggling appearence of many of these trips, they are considered beneficial to the operations of government. At least, they give the legislators a basis of personal experience on which to vote the $50 billion spent each year on defense, foreign aid and other federal spending overseas.

Dixiecrat Drive For Gen. Walker, Against Sen. Fulbright Boomerangs

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Most red-faced solons on Capitol Hill right now are Congressman Dale Alford of Little Rock, Ark., Sen. Strom Thurmond, the South Carolina Dixiecrat, and Sen. John Tower, the new Republician from Texas. Their faces ar about as red as the streak of color they planned to paint across the name of Dr. William Fulbright, the scholarly ex-university president who represents Arkansas in the Senate.

Fulbright had written a memo to Secretary of Defense McNamara alerting him that certain Pentagon brass hats were lining up with industrial right-wingers to foment a sort of neo-fascism despite the fact that they were wearing Uncle Sam's uniform.

This brought a storm of reaction from the Dixiecrats.

Fulbright was the only member of the Senate to vote against appropriations for Sen. Joe McCarthy's witch-hunting expedition during the heyday of McCarthy's popularity. And Senator Thurmond immediately charged that censorship of speeches by military men is a direct result of Communists efforts furthered by "others who are working for the same goals." On top of this, Congressman Dale Alford, who wants to run against Fulbright next year, saw a chance to smear him.

So, since the Dixiecrats couldn't investigate Fulbright under Senate rules, they hatched up a demand to investigate Pentagon muzzling of the military men — especially Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, reprimanded for attacking ex-President Harry Truman and trying to brainwash his troops in the political gibberish of the John Birch Society.

Hoopla For Walker

The campaign for General Walker was launched with great hoopla. Congressman Alford was appointed chairman of a "Congressional committee for justice for General Walker." He went on the air, told his radio audience that General Walker was a "great military leader," a "decorated hero" whom left-wingers were seeking to destroy and whose "only crime is patriotism."

Other members of the "Congressional committee for justice for General Walker" included Edgar Hiestand of California, chief Congressional member of the John Birch Society, Senator Thumond and Senator Tower of Texas. Some of them called on Secretary of the Army Elvis Stahr.

They got nowhere with Stahr, a former president of West Virginia University. He made it clear that no amount of pressure would cause him to backtrack on his reprimand of Walker. He said he had no fear of a Congressional investigation. His Congressional callers departed looking glum.

Meanwhile, Senator Tower had introduced a resolution to investigate Walker's reprimand, and Senator Thurmond got a preliminary hearing before the Senate Armed Services Committee on the resolution.

Faces Get Red

This was when Congressional faces began to blush crimson.

At the Senate Armed Services Committee hearing, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, No. 1 lady of the Senate, asked a quiet question of Secretary McNamara.

"Was General Walker commander of the federal troops in Little Rock?" she asked.

"What!" exploded Chairman Dick Russell of Georgia, the usually imperturable chairman of the Armed Services Committee. "General Walker was in command at Little Rock. I thought at the time that he exercised highhanded arbitrary and intimidating methods.

"If the Secretary will look back further he will find that I wired both President Eisenhower and Secretary Wilson, pointing out that for the first time in peacetime in this country troops were being commanded by a man who used a loudspeaker to intimidate the public."

Russell added that Walker ordered his troops to drive people off of private property with "bayonets and rifle butts," also that eight persons in Little Rock were "put in jail and held incommundicado for hours."

"If that is the situation," concluded Senator Russell, "the tendencies of General Walker should have been very well known in the Department of Defense. It had been put on notice a long time before."

It was Walker's operation at Little Rock that elected Alford to Congress. As a member of the school board he campaigned against integration, against federal troops, against what they did under Walker at Little Rock. As a result he defeated one of the most respected members of Congress, Rep. Brooks Hays.

Now that he's safely in Congress, the wheel of fate has spun round again, and Alford suddenly finds himself the bosom buddy and defender of the man who used drawn bayonets in enforcing integration at Little Rock.

Behind The Scenes

Texas Republicians will deny it but they're calling a meeting in Wichita Falls Sept. 26 to pick a strong Republican candidate to replace Congressman Frank Ikard, Democrat, who is resigning in January. They hope to follow the example of Sen. John Tower of Texas, the first Republician senator elected in a hundred years from the Lone Star State, by electing another Republican Congressman from Texas . . . . George Dixon, the newspaperman who keeps Washington in good humor, is publishing a rip-roaring book next week, "Leaning On A Column." . . . President Kennedy is so sore at Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia for being pro-Soviet at the Belgrade Conference that he has canceled tentative plans for Tito to visit the United States . . . The musicians union is working with the immigration service to keep Greek and Egyptian belly dancers and bazooka players out of the USA. Two New York night clubs, the Suez and the Port Said, want to import Near East dancers but the immigration service, backed by the musicians union, says no.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

In Washington, D. C., every man has enemies except one. He is a short bushy-haired character who wears a crooked grin and a tilted fedora. He talks tough to hide his buttery heart and his name is George Dixon. He writes a humorous newspaper column out of an office that looks as though it had been occupied by one Collier brother.

Mr. Dixon looks like a man who has the numbers racket concession at a school for backward children. The opposite is true. He is a soft touch for any hard luck story; he adores children at a suitable distance; and he has been refashioned into a creditable gentleman by Ymelda, the daughter of Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico.

The fact that she happens to be his wife only makes the task more heartbreaking. Mrs. Dixon is a petit-four of a woman, a bit bigger than a bon bon and not as hard on the surface. She has goaded Mr. Dixon, the scourge of Georgetown, into writing a book. It is called "Leaning on a Column" and it is being published today by Lippincott.

An index to its greatness is that Walter Lippmann did not write the preface. In fact, there is no preface. Mr. Dixon opens his book with two solemn words: "Chapter One." The best thing that can be said for Dixon's prose is that doesn't waste it. When, for example, he wants his readers to have an insight to the nobility of Washington society, George gets to the point at once:

"This was Cissie Patterson's traditional Christmas party and it was stacked with personages so notable that even I recognized them from their pictures. I arrived at the same time as the owner of the Hope Diamond, Evalyn Walsh McLean.

"Mrs. McLean wore no mammoth diamond that night, but covering her chest was a huge jewelled cross dangling from a chain. At sight of it, Mrs. Patterson exploded, 'Evalyn, I gave you that to hang at the foot of your bed!'

"'Migawd, Cissie,' screamed Mrs. McLean, 'I couldn't lug my bed here, could I?'"

Dixon is the fun-loving Rover boy among the Washington columnists. He is a gentle debunker, one who likes to point out the human frailties of the Washington statesmen and their consorts. He is the only columnist, so far as I know, who reported the fact that a lady sneaked up behind Representative Hale and pinched him. When Hale turned around, the lady apologized: "I'm sorry," she said. "I thought you were Mr. Justice Frankfurter."

The book explains something which, to my way of thinking, has been a perennial Washington mystery: the absence of good saloons and night clubs.

"In Washington, unless otherwise stated, it is assumed that cocktail parties are from six to eight, exactly the right hours to ruin the evening for the greatest number . . . it is a fact that after you have beein Washington any length of time you tend to favor freeloading over payloading. A salon can outdraw a saloon just by leaving its front door unguarded."

The columnist draws a quicker, and sharper portrait of the capital city than any other writer: "Our only industry is government, but we don't govern ourselves. Lobbyists do not lobby in lobbies, but in schmoe-filled rooms. Lame ducks don't fly and we still maintain horse troughs, for the birds.

"Most of our farming is done on the Senate floor. If you want to talk a cop out of a ticket, do it with a foreign accent. More people go to our ballpark to root for the visiting team then the home team. We have more women than men, but we also have an oversupply of bachelors.

"We have the nation's highest per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages, and the driest speeches; also the highest per capita number of white-collar workers, possibly from washing so much dirty linen.'

I once asked George Dixon where he learned to write and he said: "On fences." The staccato style could only have come from picket fences. He writes late in the afternoon, first exhausting all the excuses for not writing: last minute phone calls, bathroom, looking out window at nothing, walking down hall to chat with David Sentner. When all else fails, and Mrs. Dixon phones to say: "We're an hour late already," George sits to the typewriter and writes very funny material.

Still, I would not exchange places with him. He has a friend who phones at 4 a. m. to yell: "This is Judge Crater. Where is everybody?"

Streptomycin Lessens Duration Of Tularemia

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The hunter or farmer who develops tularemia from an infected jack rabbit or squirrel gets a break when the disease is recognized and treated early.. Streptomycin cures rapidly, and many of the other anti-biotics relieve symptoms.

Tularemia is chiefly a disease of wild animals. Man enters the picture by handling the infected carcass, consuming tainted meat, or by the bite of an infected deer fly or tick. For this reason, the malady is most common among farmers, hunters, market men, butchers, housewives, and cooks.

When the disease is acquired while butchering an infected rabbit, for example, a sore appears three to seven days after exposure. The site is where the causative organisms entered the body, usually a finger or hand. Shortly thereafter, the victim develops headache, chills, and fever. The temperature may go up to 104 degrees F. and remain there until treatment is started.

Meanwhile, the lesion becomes red and swollen and breaks open after coming to a head. Glands in the armpits swell and are tender to the touch. The individual feels miserable, with generalized aching and weakness. The hunter wishes he never had picked up that rabbit. Most people survived tularemia in the past, but it took a long time to get well. Streptomycin lessens the duration of the illness considerably.

There is no preventive vaccine, although a new test product was reported recently. It did not prevent the initial lesion but modified the severity of the general symptoms.

Hunters must be careful in areas where the disease is known to exist. Butchers and housewives should wear rubber gloves when handling wild rabbits. The causative organisms are destroyed by heat, which means that infected meat is made harmless by thorough cooking.

TOMORROW: Self - rehabilitation.

OPERATIONS FOR CANCER

Mrs. L. H. writes: Does a person with cancer die quicker after an operation? Would he live longer without an operation? The cancer I am referring to is in the wall of the stomach.

REPLY

If the cancer can be eradicated the individual is cured and will live until something else threatens life. But when the cancer cannot be removed, surgery may hasten death in some and prolong life in others. The latter occurs when the tumor is obstructing the passageway, for example, and removal eliminates a mechanical barrier.

UNRESPONSIVE CHILD

J. A. writes: What is meant by autistic tendencies in a child?

REPLY

An autistic child does not respond to his environment and fails to develop a meaningful relationship with his parents. Many of these youngsters are brain damaged: they cannot respond to love and affection.

CURE FOR APPENDICITIS

S. M. writes: Is there any other treatment or cure for appendicitis except operation?

REPLY

No, but infection can be controled with antibiotics such as penicillin or streptomycin, provided the organ has not ruptured or become gangrenous. Obviously, removal of the organ is the cure.

COLD FEET

Mrs. A. W. writes: Why do my feet stay cold all the time?

REPLY

Poor circulation. There are many causes of this condition and it may be worth the time and expense to see your physician.

HOW TO LIFT

J. V. writes: What is the best way to stand when doing heavy lifting?

REPLY

Bend the knees in a squatting position and keep the back straight.

DIFFERENT WATER

P. R. writes: Why is it that whenever I go on a trip and drink the local water, I develop diarrhea?

REPLY

There may be something in the water to irritate your intestine but other factors to consider are excitement, anxiety, food, and allergy.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A millionaire, recalling the days when he was just beginning to claw his way up the ladder, mused, "Once I was living in California, while my parents were still in Michigan. I had just saved enough money to buy myself a bicycle when I heard my mother was sick. I jumped on my bike and pedaled all the way back to Michigan, only to be told that California air was the one thing that could save my mother's life.

"Gentlemen, I was equal to the occasion. I carted the bicycle over to my mother's bed, let the California air out of the tires—and she lived to the ripe old age of 96."

The editor of a book publishing house rashly took his hungry girl friend to one of the most expensive restaurants in town. Noting that he turned deathly pale when the check was presented to him, she asked, "What's the matter, Tom? You look sick." "I am," he told her grimly. "It must be something you ate."

You're Telling Me

Americans are expected to consume a record 13 billion hot dogs this year, according to a meat industry statistician. That's 72 wienies per person — which proves, that with all his bluster, Mr. K. hasn't made us lose our appetite, frank-ly speaking.

What's most amazing about this new high in hot dog downing is that almost nowhere in the U. S. have we had much picnic weather!

Most of us hear better with our right than with our left ear, research by a University of Texas speech department professor shows. That's fine, since those propaganda - spouting Commies are certainly toward the left!

Maris Hits 58th Homer In Twelfth Inning To Sink Tigers, 6-4

Roger Needs Two More To Equal Record

Skowron, Boyer Connect; Arroyo Posts 15th Win

By CLARK HALLAS
United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Roger Maris belted his 58th homer in the 12th inning Sunday, leading the New York Yankees to a 6-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers and leaving him three games to equal or surpass Babe Ruth's all-time record.

Maris' homer, which came off reliever Terry Fox with one on, traveled 400 feet and bounced off the facing of the second deck of the right center field stands.

The homer came in the Yankees' 151st game and kept Maris two games ahead of Ruth's record pace of 1927.

Actually, Maris wouldn't have had an opportunity to hit his 58th homer in the 12th had not Yankee first baseman Bill Skowron committed an eighth inning error which enabled the Tigers to tie the score at 4-4.

Pinch hitter Charlie Maxwell started the Tiger rally in the eighth with a double and scored on Jake Wood's single, cutting the Yanks' lead to 4-3.

Wood then scored all the way from first after being trapped in a rundown when Skowron threw the ball into center field.

Southpaw relief ace Luis Arroyo, who took over for starter Bill Stafford in the eighth, blanked the Tigers on two hits the rest of the way to earn his 15th victory against four defeats. The appearance for Arroyo was his 60th of the season, tying a Yankee record for relief pitchers set in 1949 by Joe Page.

Home runs by Skowron and Cletis Boyer and a triple by Maris, all off Detroit starter Jim Bunning, accounted for the Yankees' first four runs.

Skowron hit his 26th homer in the second inning to tie the score at 1-1 and Boyer's 11th homer with one on overcame a Detroit lead 3-2 in the fourth.

Maris delivered his triple in the seventh, scoring Tony Kubek from first and putting the Yanks ahead, 4-2.

Maris' triple barely missed being a homer. The ball hit the top of a nine-foot screen at the 370-foot marker in right field and bounced away from Al Kaline.

Fox, who relieved Bunning in the ninth, was charged with his second defeat against four victories.

Mickey Mantle was held hitless in four official trips. Mantle has 53 homers.

San Francisco Trims Cubs, 8-2

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Felipe Alou belted a two-run homer during a perfect day at the plate while the San Francisco Giants were kissing the Chicago Cubs goodbye for the season with an 8-2 pasting Sunday for Chicago's eighth straight loss.

Alou went four for four and drove in four runs. Two of them came across when he hit his 18th home run off rookie southpaw Jack Curtis with Willie Mays on base.

Indians Drop Two To Twins

Minnesota Scores 5-0, 5-3 Victories

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Minnesota Twins got strong pitching performances from Camilo Pascual, Al Schroll and Ray Moore Sunday and swept a doubleheader from the Indians, 5-0 and 5-3.

Pascual racked up his seventh shutout of the season opener, scattering eight hits and fanning nine to run his strikeout total to 207.

It was Pascual's 14th victory against 15 losses, but only his third lifetime triumph against the Indians, who have beaten him 14 times in his eight years in the majors. Pascual's three victories over Cleveland have been shutouts.

Joe Altobelli drove in three runs against Jim Perry (10-15), getting a homer and a two-run single.

Schroll and Moore topped Jim Grant (14-9) in the nightcap. Schroll (3-3) had a shutout entering the seventh, then yielded two runs on Hal Jones' single with men on second and third.

Larry Jackson Beats Bucs, 3-0

Musial Hits 2-Run Homer For St. Louis

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Larry Jackson pitched a five-hitter and Stan Musial, marking his 20th anniversary as a major league player, hit a two-run homer Sunday in a 3-0 St. Louis victory over Pittsburgh.

Jackson didn't allow a runner past second in notching his 14th triumph against nine losses. All of the Pittsburgh hits were singles.

Musial's home run, his 14th, came in the sixth with Ken Boyer aboard by virtue of a walk.

Curt Flood got the first of his four singles in the opening inning and scored on Boyer's double for the Cardinals' other run.

Al McBean (3-2) was the loser.

Panthers, Virginia Tech, Villanova Take Openers

Pitt Trims Miami, 10-7; West Virginia Is Defeated, 35-26

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

College football made a decorous debut on the 1961 sports scene this past weekend, with enough action to make its presence felt but without the boldness to upstage Maris-Mantle and Home Runs, Inc.

Pittsburgh's Panthers grabbed the starring role Saturday, putting together a dazzling long-gainer in the closing minutes in rain-drenched Miami and beating the Hurricanes 10-7 in the first NCAA televised game of the week. New Mexico State extended the nation's longest winning streak to 16 games, smothering Arizona State College 56-6. Mel Rideout sparked Richmond as the Spiders won for the first time over West Virginia 35-26. Virginia Tech beat William and Mary in another Southern Conference opener, 20-6. Wyoming rolled over Montana 29-0 in the Skyline Conference. And Iowa State opened up in the final period for a 21-0 victory over Drake.

Hurricanes Becalmed

Pitt becalmed the Miami Hurricanes on a lateral play that covered 80 yards over the Orange Bowl's turf, which was soaked by a tropical deluge that broke loose early in the third quarter. Fred Cox waded around left end for 20 yards before lateraling off to sophomore Paul Martha, who splashed through the puddles for 60 more yards and the winning touchdown.

Largely through the sharpshooting of sophomore quarterback George Mira, Miami dominated play in the bright, hot sunshine of the first half. After two advances failed, Miami clicked on the third on a 4-yard pass from Mira to Larry Wilson. Cox got Pitt three points shortly after the rains came with a 38-yard field goal.

New Mexico State sent six different backs across the goal line and Pete Smolanovich was eight for eight kicking conversions in the Aggies' romp over Arizona State College. It was Coach Warren Woodson's 200th career victory.

Mountaineers Lose

Rideout passed for three touchdowns and ran for another as Richmond bettered West Virginia for the first time in their eight meetings. Soph quarterback Fred Colvard scored three TD's and counted on a two-point conversion run for the Mountaineers, who are in the rebuilding stage after toppling from the Southern Conference pinnacle.

Terry Strock's 34-yard punt return triggered Virginia Tech's 20-point third quarter, which settled the issue against William and Mary. Wyoming piled up its 29 points in the opening half, then let the reserves take over in the Cowboys' shutout of Montana. Iowa State, stopped by Drake for three quarters, cashed in on two fumble recoveries and a short punt in the last period. Ozzie Clay's two-yard plunge broke the scoreless tie and Dave Hoppmann later unreeled two scoring passes.

Villanova Wins

Elsewhere — Florida State's defensive specialists, the Renegades, made two late goal line stands and saved a 15-7 decision over George Washington. Villanova wheeled over Miami (Ohio) 33-0). Gary Hertzfeldt threw a 25-yard scoring pass on his very first varsity play in Utah's 40-0 runaway against Colorado State University. Wichita withstood one threat after another in edging Toledo 12-7. And Davie Cox hit on eight passes in as many tries, with four of them going for touchdowns, as State College of Iowa outscored Bradley 37-26.

Eagles Defeat Browns, 27-20

Brown Runs Opening Kickoff 105 Yards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles, set in flight by halfback Tim Brown's 105-yard touchdown return of the game's opening kickoff, defeated the Cleveland Browns 27-20 Sunday, further confusing the experts who rated the defending National League champions as 1961 also rans.

Facing the team, which was selected almost unanimously to dethrone them as Eastern Conference champs, the Eagles never trailed in a slam bang high scoring contest that heaped thrill upon thrill for a sellout crowd of 60,671 at Franklin Field.

Fresh from an unbeaten exhibition season in which they won five games, the Eagles led 7-0 almost before the crowd realized the game was underway.

Tim Brown took the kickoff 5 yards deep in the end zone and behind a host of downfield blockers went all the way for a touchdown. He faked Bob Franklin and sprang into the open, losing his last pursuer, Galen Fiss, on a honey of a block by end Dick Lucas.

The score was tied 10-10 at the end of the first quarter but Philadelphia soared ahead to stay in the second period.

Chisox Take Double Bill From Angels

Baumann, Larsen Score, 8-1 And 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Goodman's run-scoring pinch single in the 10th inning enabled the Chicago White Sox to sweep a doubleheader from Los Angeles Sunday, 8-1 and 4-3.

Goodman's game-winning blow followed a one-out double by Minnie Minoso and an intentional walk to Nellie Fox. Reliever Don Larsen was credited with his eighth victory against one loss.

Al Smith's grand slam homer and the five-hit pitching of Frank Baumann (10-12) were more than enough for Chicago's first-game triumph.

Outfielder George Thomas provided all of the Angels' batting punch. He doubled home Los Angeles' only run in the first game and drove in all three runs in the nightcap with a sacrifice fly and a two-run single.

His two-run single gave the Angels a 3-2 lead in the eighth inning of the second game but Jim Landis cracked his 22nd homer in the bottom of the eighth, tying the score and sending the game into overtime.

Bills Spill Titans, 41-31

Buffalo Sparked By Richie Lucas

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Richie Lucas, pressed into a starting assignment because of injuries to the Bills' other quarterbacks, sparked Buffalo to a 41-31 upset of the New York Titans in an American Football League game Sunday.

The former Penn State star pitched two touchdown passes and his key block freed flanker Elbert Dubenion on a 73-yard scoring scamper in the second period as the Bills stampeded away from the Titans.

Both teams now have 1-1 records.

New York, with Al Dorow in the driver's seat, took 17-0 lead in the first period, before Fred Brown's 93-yard kickoff return put the Bills on the scoreboard.

Buffalo shot by the stunned Titans in the second period on three touchdowns, all engineered by Lucas. His 45-yard heave to end Glenn Bass with four seconds remaining in the half put the Bills in front to stay.

Buffalo added 10 points in the third period while holding New York scoreless. New York jumped back into contention in the last period on a 12-yard touchdown pass from Dorow to end Art Powell, but both attacks stalled until Joe Hergert of Buffalo booted his third field goal with two seconds left in the game.

Monbouquette Blanks Birds

Pagliaroni's Hit Beats Estrada, 1-0

BOSTON (AP) — Boston right-hander Bill Monbouquette shut out Baltimore 1-0 on three singles Sunday, aided by batterymate Jim Pagliaroni's timely double.

Marv Breeding beat out a topped roller to Chuck Schilling in the third inning. It was the only Baltimore hit until Jim Gentile rapped a solid smash up the middle leading off the seventh. Whitey Herzog lined to left with two out in the ninth.

Pagliaroni provided the run Monbouquette needed for his 13th victory. Pete Runnels had singled and there were two out in the Red Sox fourth when Dave Philley missed a shoestring stab at Pagliaroni's hard-hit liner to left. The ball rolled through to the wall as Runnels came all the way around and scored.

Loser Chuck Estrada and reliever Hoyt Wilhelm allowed only six Boston blows, two of them by Runnels.

Frostburg Wins Over Hyndman, 4-1, Cops Pen-Mar Playoff Title

Ralph Peace And Zumpano Star In Game

Frostburg Hurler Tosses 4-Hitter; Gene Has 3 RBIs

Ralph Peace pitched a 4-hitter and second baseman Gene Zumpano batted in three runs yesterday as the Frostburg Merchants defeated the Hyndman Merchants at Frostburg by the score of 4-1 and won the playoff title in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

Four hundred and fifty persons, the largest crowd to attend a league game in the Mountain City this season, saw Manager William "Bee" Scarpelli's team make a two-game sweep in their final playoff series with the pennant winning Pennsylvanians. Frostburg won the opener of the scheduled best-of-three set the previous week by the score of 5-3 behind Mike Kasnick.

Peace Posts 10th Win

Peace, one-time Penn State University hurler, turned back the Bedford countians with four singles, struck out six and recorded his tenth victory of the campaign against two setbacks. Frostburg closed the campaign with a four-game winning streak as did Peace.

Frostburg wound up the season by copping 23 of its last twenty-nine games after losing the first four. The team's overall record was 23-10.

Gene Supplies Power

Zumpano supplied the power in yesterday's clincher when he doubled home Donnie Nave and Jim Willetts in the 5th to put Frostburg ahead, 2-1. In the 7th, Gene belted a triple with Willetts aboard and scored the fourth and final run on Gary Clingerman's hit to right field.

Zumpano and Nave shared four of the eight hits Frostburg obtained off Vohn Lehman, the loser, and Glenn Deremer, who replaced him on the mound in the eighth frame.

Lowery's single, walks to Bosley and Morgart and an overthrow by Zumpano produced Hyndman's tally in the first inning.

In League Two Years

John C. Sullivan, well known lawyer and one-time Frostburg player, obtained a franchise for Frostburg in the Pen-Mar League last year and the Merchants wound up with a 14-14 record. A great finish this year enabled Frostburg to windup the regular season one game behind Hyndman (20-8) with a 19-9 record. Sullivan is general manager of the new playoff champions.

Yesterday's score:

Hyndman	100	000	000	1	4	1
Frostburg	000	020	20x	4	8	1

Vohn Lehman, Deremer (8) and Bosley. Ralph Pence and Joe Langan.
Loser — Lehman.

Steve Myhra's Field Goal Gives Colts 27-24 Victory

54,259 See Rams Go Down To Defeat In N.F.L. Opener

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts shored up their defenses and kept the Los Angeles Rams from scoring in the second half Sunday while Steve Myhra kicked them to a 27-24 victory with a 39-yard field goal in the last quarter.

The Rams scored four of the five times they had the ball in the first half and led 24-17 at the intermission of the opening game for both National Football League teams.

But Ram quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, who had thrown two touchdown passes and run for another score, was stifled completely throughout the third quarter and when he left early in the fourth he had completed only one pass. He had hit on nine of ten in the first two quarters.

54,259 See Game

The Rams enjoyed a 24-10 lead with 2½ minutes to play in the first half when they fouled the Colts to a touchdown that might have been the turning point in the contest before a capacity Memorial Stadium crowd of 54,259.

Four penalties against the Rams, including the ejection from the game of defensive tackle John LoVotere, moved the ball for the Colts from the Los Angeles 35 to the two.

Colt quarterback John Unitas threw his only touchdown pass of the game from there to Lenny Moore with only three seconds left in the half.

In the third quarter, Unitas snaked his way eight yards for the tying touchdown, set up when defensive end Gino Marchetti recovered a Ram fumble at the 23.

Kicks Two Goals

Myhra's winning field goal was his second, so his three-pointers represented the actual difference.

Dan Villanueva began the scoring with a 24-yard field goal for the Rams but he missed a potential tying one of 29 yards in the last quarter.

Bratkowski ran the final five the Rams' first touchdown. He went to the air in the second quarter, finding Carroll Dale for a 52-yard scoring thrust and Duane Allen for another of 32 yards.

Moore Runs 38 Yards

Moore scored a touchdown for the Colts in the first quarter on a 38-yard sprint around his left end.

Both teams showed more rushing than usual, each gaining more on the ground than in the air. Joe Perry bore the brunt for the Colts with 106 yards in 18 carries while Wilson earned 118 yards in 15 attempts.

Both Unitas and Bratkowski completed 10 passes, the Colt quarterback for 132 yards and Ram tosser for 140.

Oakland tied up the final playoff series in the Town and Country Softball League at two-all yesterday by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Mt. Storm at Oakland by scores of 12-8 and 5-3.

Mt. Storm needed only one win to cop the title but Irving Wolfe (14-10) hurled Oakland to victory in both contests.

Oakland exploded for seven runs in the first inning to beat Bob Foster (19-3) in the opener sewed up the nightcap by scoring four of its five runs off Tom Kuhn in the initial frame.

"Peg" Clark hit homers in both games for Mt. Storm. Kuhn and Moreland also hit round-trippers for the losers.

The fifth and deciding game will be staged next Sunday at a place to be determined this week. Yesterday's scores:

Brodie Sparkles In 49er Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Quarterback John Brodie tossed four touchdown passes Sunday as the San Francisco Forty Niners opened their 1961 National Football League campaign by romping to a 35-3 decision over the young and inexperienced Washington Redskins.

While a big opening day crowd of 43,142 looked on, the Forty Niners made a shambles of the Redskins defense and completely bottled up the Washington offense.

Getting brilliant receiving efforts from ends Monte Stickles and Clyde Conner, Brodie had a great day as he took over this year as San Francisco's number one quarterback after Y. A. Tittle was traded away.

Rookie Stars As Dallas Wins Over Steelers

Green's Field Goal Decides Game, 27-24

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) —Rookie Allen Green, who made similar history with the University of Mississippi, kicked a 27-yard field goal as the clock ran out Sunday to give the Dallas Cowboys a hectic 27-24 National Football League victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The 215-pound rookie, who had missed two of three previous field goal attempts, wrote a spectacular finish to a glorious comeback engineered by little Eddie Lebaron, who came off the bench twice in the last half and guided the Cowboys to scores both times to the delight of a crowd of 23,500.

Lebaron, who is passing up a law career long enough to help the Cowboys develop Don Meredith, came on to pull Meredith out of the hole Sunday. He was in for only the first play of the third period and lofted a 45-yard scoring pass to end Billy Howton.

Then, with the Cowboys trailing 24-17 and two minutes left, the diminuitive nine-year veteran passed the Cowboys 75 yards in eight plays, the last being a 17-yarder to Dick Bielski that tied the score. That wasn't enough, however. He then completed a tremendous 41-yard pass to Howton to the Steelers' 22 to set up Green's great boot.

Cards Upset Giants, 21-10

Charley Conerly Is Humiliated

NEW YORK (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals humiliated veteran quarterback Charlie Conerly with a furious red-dogging defense Sunday and capitalized on numerous mistakes by the inept New York Giants to score a 21-10 upset National Football League victory.

A season-opening crowd of 58,059 at Yankee Stadium watched St. Louis move ahead in the first half when defensive back Willie West recovered a New York fumble in the end zone. The Cards then let the Giants set up two last period St. Louis scores on a feeble field goal try by Pat Summerall and an intercepted pass.

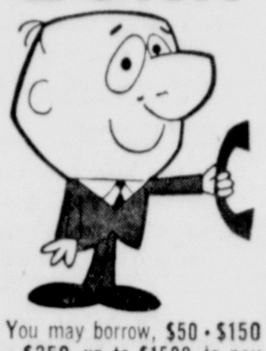

Mal Hammack scored a fourth quarter St. Louis touchdown with a 28-yard sweep around right end. Sam Etcheverry, the Canadian League expatriate making his NFL debut, passed five yards to Frank Mestnik for the final score.

Conerly, starting his 14th NFL season at the age of 40, spent most of the afternoon on his back. He was rushed off his feet by a fierce charging St. Louis defense and completed only nine of 21 passing attempts for 75 yards.

Sherman finally yielded to the catcalls of "we want Crosscup" with 6:33 to play and replaced Conerly with young Lee Crosscup. But although Grosscup heaved 11 passes during his short stay in the game, he completed only three and never menaced the Cards' goal line.

Baseball may be the great American game, but the U.S. Department of Commerce reports that Japan shipped more than 2,600,000 baseball gloves to this country last year.

Redmen Down Ritter's, 5-1 In Softball Tourney Game

Kelco, Greenpoint, Barrelville Score; Three Games Today

The Redmen downed Ritter's A. C., 5-1, Kelco (Kelly Credit Union) defeated the Sports Shoppe in eight innings, 4-2, Greenpoint Inn won over the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose, 6-1, and the Barrelville Old Germans trimmed the Cumberland K. of C., 8-2, in opening round games played in the 16-team double elimination Western Maryland Softball Tournament yesterday at Penn Avenue Field.

In Saturday's first round contests, the Hyndman V.F.W. beat the Old Germans, 3-1, Wiley Ford scored an 8-3 victory over Celanese A. A., and Bennett's Transfer emerged the victor over Keyser's Old German's, 7-1.

Largent Whiffs Ten

Allan Largent limited Ritter's to four hits and fanned ten R.A.C. batsmen in the first of four Sunday games. The Redmen put the game on ice early, scoring their five runs in the first frame. Donnie Lewis homered for the winners while Dave Ritter had three safeties for Ritter's. Odell Warnick went the route for the losers.

Kelco rallied for two runs in the top of the eight inning to nose out the Sports Shoppe.

Harold Hudson's walk, Widdow's fielder's choice, Regis Fair's wild throw and an outfield error produced the two runs in the extra inning.

Raygor Belts Homer

Art Raygor turned back the Sports Shoppe with four hits and helped his own cause with a two-run homer in the fifth inning. Raygor blanked the opposition after Bill Eckard batted in two runs in the first stanza.

Raygor whiffed three and Rich Smith, losing hurler, struck out six.

Galen McGregor handled 15 chances at first base for Kelco without a slipup.

Vernon Lowery was the "big noise" in Greenpoint Inn's victory over the Moose. He supplanted Joe Raygor in the first inning, yielding only four hits and struck out six to bag the decision.

Bob Keyser's homer in the sixth averted a shutout for the L.O.O.M. team.

Collect 11 Singles

Greenpoint collected 11 singles off Dick Klavuhn. Rich Lybarger garnered three and Solly Emerick, Joe Biggs and Steve Faulkner had two each.

Ray Troutman scattered six hits in twirling Barrelville to triumph over the Caseys in the final game of the day.

Barrelville pounded Gary Hite, Caseys' hurler for eleven blows, including a triple and two singles by Leroy Morris. Jack Lowery rapped a three-bagger and single and had three RBIs, Ronnie Carter and Joe Glass obtained two singles each and Ronnie Neubiser banged a double. Jim Collins accounted for three of the Knights' six hits, a triple, double and single and batted in two runs.

Hite fanned five and issued two passes while Troutman struck out one and gave up three passes.

Vikings Rout Bears 37 To 13 In NFL Debut

Minnesota Rookie Stages Aerial Show

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —Fran Tarkenton, a rookie quarterback from Georgia, passed for four touchdowns and ran for another as Minnesota's Vikings walloped the Chicago Bears 37-13 in their National Football League debut Sunday.

After the Vikings failed to capitalize on numerous first-half scoring chances, Tarkenton got them rolling in the second 30 minutes—completing 8 of 11 passes in the third quarter alone, two for touchdowns. Then he rolled around right end for three yards and another touchdown at the start of the fourth period.

In all, Tarkington fired 17 bulls eyes in 24 attempts and moved the formerly sluggish Vikings' offense with abandon.

He was joined in the offensive show by newcomer Jerry Reichow and veteran Hugh McElhenny, both of whom turned in sparkling catches.

Minnesota's hard-charging defense contained the Bears' running attack and, led by rookie linebacker Rip Hawkins, caused the Bears to make numerous mistakes.

Taking a 10-6 lead into the second half, the Vikings capitalized on a Chicago fumble on the first play from scrimmage and went in to score when Tarkenton threw to Reichow from 29 yards out.

Loyal Order Of Moose Purse Heads Fairgo Race Card Today

Reynolds Is Pacing Tight Jockeys Race

Posts 2nd Triple; Easy Knight, Prince Tamar Cop Features

The final half of the Cumberland Fair Association's 12-day racing meet is slated to get under way today with the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose purse, the seventh event on the program, as the feature.

Seven three-year-olds and upward will vie in the mile and one sixteenth test in which the purse of $1,400 will be split five ways with the winner taking down $882 and the Moose trophy, a $25 U.S. Savings Bond.

7,358 Witness Races

A turnout of 7,358 persons witnessed the meeting's first nine-race card on Saturday and saw Easy Knight owned by Mrs. Melvin W. Bosley and ridden by Lawrence Reynolds, win the Governor's Purse, and John S. Pettibone's Prince Tamar, with Reynolds aboard, annex the major portion of the $1,400 purse in the Harry A. Manley Memorial race, eighth on the program.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes, who arrived and left Fairgo by helicopter which landed and took off from the infield, presented a $25 bond to Mrs. Bosley, owner and Easy Knight after the 6-year-old bay gelding whipped Thoughtful, the favorite, and returned $11.40 for $2.

Mrs. Dorothy Leidke, daughter of the late Harry A. Manley, former general manager at Fairgo, presented the imported wine cooler to Shirley T. Payne, trainer of Prince Tamar, winner over Assertion by 2¼ lengths. Owner Pettibone became the 24th person to gain a leg on the trophy which has been in competition since 1936. Prince Tamar rewarded his backers with $15.20 for $2.

Reynolds Cops Lead

Lawrence Reynolds rode three winners for the second straight day and passed Charley McKee in the jockeys' race by upping his total to nine winners for the first six days of the meeting. In addition to scoring with Easy Knight and Prince Tamar he also piloted the favored Poly Free, $6.40 for $2 in the fourth.

Reginald G. Scott threw the trainers' race into a four-way tie for first place by saddling a pair of winners, Covat ($8.20) in the opener, and Inchcliffe Castle ($15.10) in the ninth. Scott is now tied with Angelo Bertrando, John N. Greer and Don Hench, each having three winners to their credit.

Double Pays $133.40

Windust ($16.20) in the opener and Fort Quill ($10.00) in the second formed the winning daily double combination (8 and 7) and paid $133.40. The double pool of $23,346 was the biggest of the meeting.

Monsignor R., with John Luz up, won the sixth race for a $4.80 mutuel while Bahati ($7.40) took the seventh race.

Poly Free and Monsignor R. were the only favorites to score Saturday when the mutuel handle of $240,766 was tops for the meeting and boosted the six-day total to $904,498. Attendance for the six days was 27,136.

FAIRGO NOTES

When John Luz, 19, registered the hen John Luz, 19, registered the first win of his brief racing career Saturday on Monsignor R., in the sixth race, it was his 14th mount since he made his debut at Pimlico last May.

Luz had one mount at Pimlico, six at Delaware Park, three at Bel Air, one at Timonium and three here.

John is of Portuguese descent and comes from a family of seven children — six boys and one girl. His parents reside at Fall River, Mass.

Luz credits Herbie Hoover, manager of the Sun View Stock Farm in Delaware, with teaching him everything he knows about riding.

"I didn't get much of an opportunity until I met Mr. Hoover," Luz said.

Jockey William Hawksworth was suspended for crowding horses after the start and on the first turn in the fifth race Friday. He was riding Melissa's Pride, owned by Raymond P. McGuire, of Frostburg, and is the fourth rider to be grounded at the meeting by the stewards.

Two hundred and eighty-seven different horses ran during the 49 races last week and Covat was the only double winner. Thirty-three riders got mounts.

The most handled on a single race during the first week was $30,079 in the ninth on Saturday.

C. V. BURNS

GRABS LEAD — Lawrence Reynolds registered his second "triple" in as many days on Saturday at Fairgo and took the lead in the jockeys' race with nine winners in six days. Larry as an apprentice rider in 1958 piloted 25 winners at Fairgo. He now has a 9-6-4 record while Charley McKee occupies the runner-up spot with an 8-4-6 mark. Reynolds' winners Saturday were Poly Free ($6.40), Easy Knight ($11.40) and Prince Tamar ($15.20). He has had 35 mounts at the current session.

Marr Is Victor In Seattle Open

SEATTLE (UPI)—Dave Marr, coming from four strokes off the pace, shot a sizzling seven-under par 31-32—63 Sunday and went on to win a three-way, sudden-death playoff to capture top money in the $25,000 Greater Seattle Open.

Marr, a 28-year-old golfer from Houston, Tex., who plays out of Sun City, Ariz., birdied the first hole of the playoff with a 3½ foot putt to defeat Bob Roseburg, 34, Portland, Ore., and Jackie Cupit, 23, Longview, Tex.

The three were tied at 266 after 72-holes of regulation play.

The play-off birdie was Marr's eighth of the day against no bogies and it put him eight under par for his day's work and won him the top cash prize of $3500.

Detroit Lions Edge Packers

Green Bay Ground Attack Bottled Up

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Detroit Lions shackled Green Bay's vaunted ground attack and stopped a late threat on Dick Lane's pass interception in the closing minutes, defeating the Packers 17-13 Sunday in a National Football League opener.

Lane picked a loose ball out of the air after Bart Starr's pass bounced off Gary Knafelc's fingers, ending Green Bay's final chance.

Lane, a veteran defensive back, hauled in the slippery ball at his 7 and returned six yards. The Lions then ran out the clock in three plays.

The Detroit defense, rated by many as one of the finest in the league, surrendered a touchdown to Green Bay less than 3½ minutes after the opening kickoff. But then the Lions settled down and bottled up the overland attack which led the Packers to the Western Division championship a year ago.

A couple of Yale Lary punts downed deep in Green Bay territory set up both Detroit touchdowns.

SILVERSMITHS OF TAXCO

Picturesque town of Taxco, overlooking street, center, where most of the silver shops are located.

Taxco silversmith brazes silver on brass in process which is called "marriage of the metals."

Once a forgotten town, deep in the mountains of south-central Mexico, Taxco today is a busy, thriving community, the silver center of the nation and the mecca of tourists who love the town's steep, cobbled streets, its Spanish colonial houses, and the handworked silver pieces its stores are stocked with.

The silver comes from the veins in the mountains that ring the town, the same veins that furnished much of the wealth the Spaniards took out of the country more than four centuries ago. The conquerors practically stripped the mines. For a long, long time Taxco and the mines lay virtually idle, neglected, forgotten.

In 1930, an American artist, William Spratling, came to Taxco and gave the town a fresh start in silver handicrafts. He gathered together a few silversmiths and got them to work with designs that were adaptations of pre-Hispanic Indian jewelry and ceremonial pieces. The same barefoot craftsmen later branched out into their own businesses, and flourished.

Today Taxco's silver industry employs some 15,000 persons and the town has 105 silver stores. In workshops and in homes where entire families may be engaged, pieces of silver are being tastefully wrought into shining objects of beauty—pitchers, candlesticks, jewelry, chess sets, perfume flasks, flatware and hundreds of other articles.

Sheet of copper is cut expertly for use in making of decorative piece which will also have substantial amounts of silver and brass.

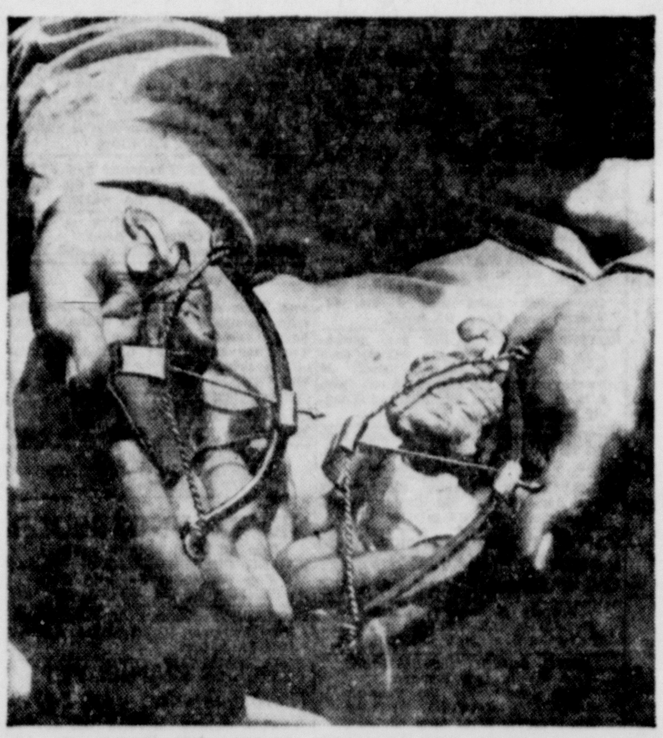

Their handiwork. Top: silver water pitcher and goblets. Bottom: solid silver coffee set in modern style.

Silver craftsman puts copper edge onto base of tray in which wedges of silver, copper and brass have been used.

Youngster watches silversmith put finishing touches on novelty silver cigarette lighter, of fish design, and inlaid with lapis lazuli.

Genuine antique Inca Indian heads are held with bow-and-arrow mountings of silver and copper in which they'll be set for women's pins.

Two American tourists look over silver articles offered for sale at Los Castillo Plateros, one of Taxco's largest and best known silver shops.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Zorka Krnaya, who passed away 17 years ago, September 18, 1944:
The road into the sunset
Is the one we all must tread,
And though it brings us sorrow
When a loved one goes ahead.
There is always comfort knowing
We will meet again someday—
When all grief and pain are over
And the clouds have rolled away.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Heads Of A Feather Will Flock Together

Fall hat fashions are definitely FROM the birds — with sweeps of ostrich and pheasant foliage flying in first formation. For day or night, town or country, the best-clad heads will carry feathers.

There's no more feminine and colorful crown for a woman than a feather hat. And there is such a wide choice of designs this year that feathers can be worn appropriately with both casual and dress-up costumes . . . atop either plain or fancy hairdos.

From small, sleek contrivances that hug the head to fluffy, flowing ostrich plumes that copy the modes of the '20s and '30s, feathers flatter sharp facial angles and bring a new texture and trim to tired wardrobes.

The other side of the fall hat picture still shows velvet, in sharp focus and rich color. In fact, the bright velvet cap or brimmed skimmer is become more and more "basic" to basic blacks and neutrals, adding that one dramatic touch of brilliance.

Ever a romantic fabric, versatile and obedient to all manners of cutting and shaping, velvet is unmatched in its natural ability to interpret startling shades and depth of tone.

Its plush talents are really put through their paces with this season's pet shades — all the royal magentas, blue, green, apricot, mustard. These are strong and demanding colors that need little or no support from secondary colors. It's for this reason they are so successful worn singly with a monotone basic.

To compete with such a vivid frame, both your face and hair should be made up with extra care. Don't let your velvet bonnet call attention to a haphazard coiffure or to a hair condition that's below par . . . and don't allow a sketchy makeup job make your face look pinched and pale by contrast. Your fall makeup should be more alive and radiant than usual.

Confuses Physician

WASHINGTON — Advertising emphasis on the brand name of drugs confuses the prescribing physician and helps the manufacture maintain a "Wuasi-monopoly", the Justice Department said. Assistant Attorney General Lee Loevinger said it would be highly desirable to enact legislation aimed at encouraging drug makers to compete for sales by use of official or chemical names.

Political Activity In State Brisk Over Weekend

McKeldin Urges Nixon To Run

By The Associated Press

Political activity leading up to next May's primary election was brisk this weekend, with these developments gaining most of the attention:

1. The return of the Mahoney-Lee-Barrick slate from a stumping tour through Western Maryland.

2. The announcement that 2,300 tickets at $100 each had been sold for a testimonial dinner honoring Gov. Tawes.

3. Theodore R. McKeldin, former Maryland governor, urged former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to run for governor of California.

4. The announcement that Michael J. Birmingham, Democratic national committeeman for Maryland, would seek the nomination for chief executive of Baltimore County.

Mahoney said the tour of Western Maryland, which started in Montgomery County last Sunday, turned up "a fervent desire for a change in administration."

Mahoney Claims Support

"We were literally overwhelmed with ... pledges of support from civic as well as political leaders of Western Maryland," said Mahoney, an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Accompanying him on the tour were running mates Del. Blair Lee III, D-Montgomery, for U. S. senator and Sen. Samuel Barrick, D-Frederick, for attorney general.

"At the same time," Mahoney said, "we were sobered by the extent of the difficulties which face certain areas of Western Maryland. Certainly more effort could have been exerted than has been displayed by the current administration in Annapolis..."

Tawes has yet to announce he will seek nomination for the post he has held the last four years. But those of his supporters who dished out $100 for a ticket to his testimonial dinner next Thursday apparently have no doubt he will run again.

2,300 Tickets Out

Harry W. Rogers, who heads ticket sales for the dinner, said he had distributed 2,300. Tawes may choose the occasion to announce his candidacy.

Besides the governor, three men expected to be his running mates —Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, both incumbents, and Daniel Brewster, campaigning for U. S. Senate—are scheduled to speak.

Their remarks will be telecast on stations in Baltimore, Washington and other sections of the state, Rogers said.

Wants Nixon To Run

McKeldin, himself a possible candidate for Maryland governor, released a letter Saturday in which he urged Nixon to run for governor of California.

"I know I am speaking for Republicans everywhere when I tell you I hope you will become a candidate for governor without delay," read the letter, released at a rally of the Snyder County Republican Committee of Pennsylvania.

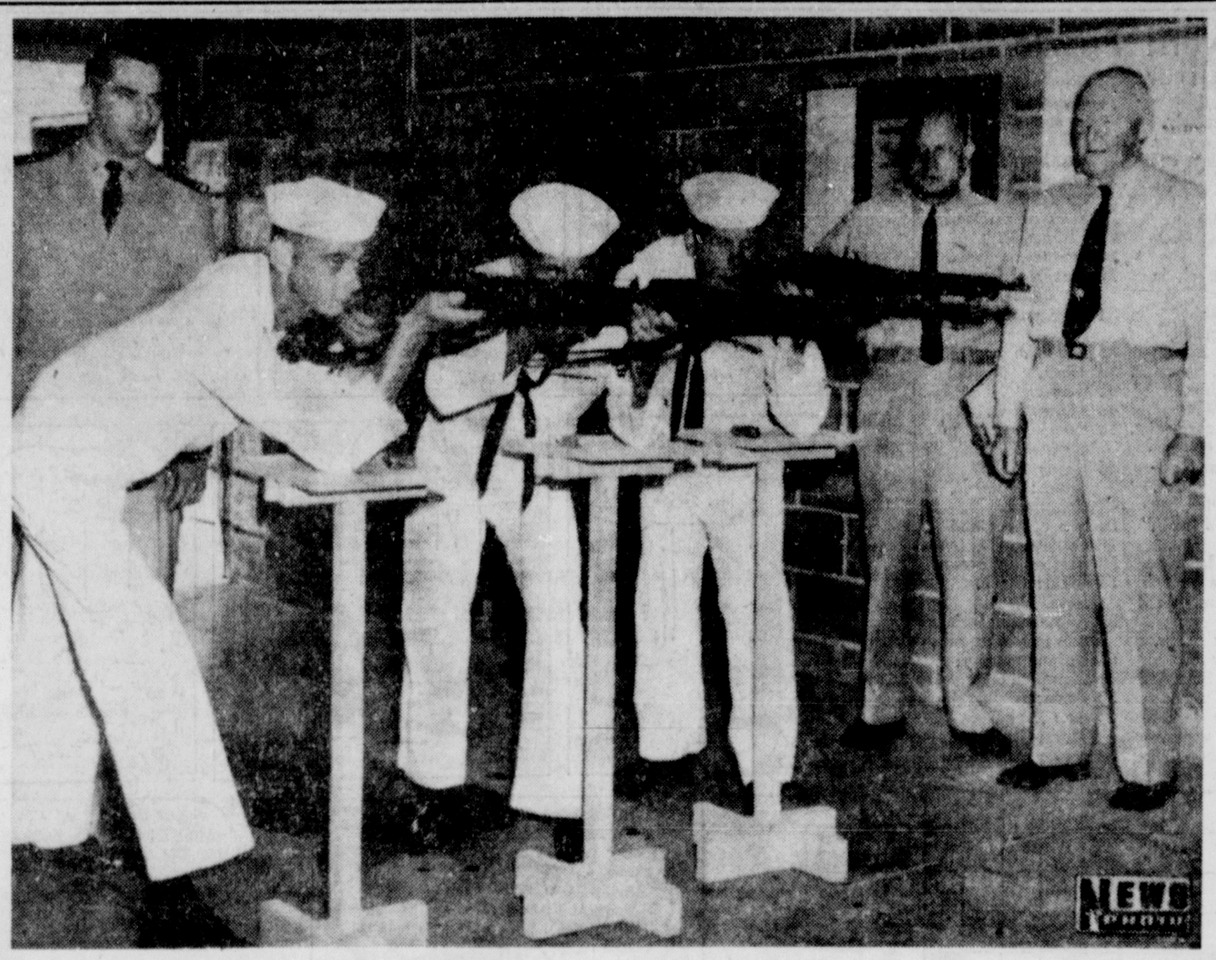

"Your announcement," McKeldin told the former Vice President, "would encourage strong and capable Republicans in all of the states to build tickets of which we could be proud in the elections of 1962."

Birmingham will attempt to regain the Baltimore County chief executive's post he held from 1956 to 1958 before the election of Christian H. Kahl. The pair formerly were political allies, but now they will oppose each other since Kahl also plans to seek the nomination.

Birmingham, who also was the last president of the county commissioners before the charter system of government was installed in 1956, supported Kahl in the chief executive's race in 1958.

Law In Hospital

Raymond "Ike" Law, 302 Cumberland Street, will undergo surgery this morning in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Seabees On The Line

Part of the training program of the local Seabee unit of the Naval Reserve is observed by Capt. Roger G. Witherell, extreme right, of the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks, and Commander Charles R. Bittenbring III, during a national inspection Saturday and yesterday at the local Naval Reserve Training Center. Lt. (j.g.) Thomas R. Kahl, left, assistant training officer of CB unit 5-7, supervises as W. J. Torbet, CMH 3; C. W. Conway, CM 1; and R. O. Robeson, CMH 2, line up on the small bore range.

Poison Control Center Reports On Activities

Activities of the Poison Control Center for the Tri-State area are included in a report by the Maryland State Health Department in cooperation with the Maryland Chapter, American Academy of Pediatrics.

The Tri-State center was opened in Sacred Heart Hospital here last year and is one of five such centers in Maryland.

Others are located in Baltimore City Hospital, Johns Hopkins Hospital, Suburban Hospital, University of Maryland Hospital and Washington County Hospital.

During the year ending in April, the Sacred Heart unit provided treatment or services to 64 poison cases. Included were 28 patients affected by internal medicines, three by external medicines, seven with household agents, three with pesticides, three with petroleum distillates and 20 patients treated for other causes.

The other causes treated in the centers resulted from the taking of aluminum, berries, carbolic acid, cosmetics, gas (including carbon monoxide), ink, lead, mercury, paint, shoe polish, canned heat and toadstools.

Patients aided at the Sacred Heart center totaled 64, one less than at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Youngsters were the chief victims of poisoning. Only 29 babies less than a year old were treated, but the number rose to 234 in the 1-2 age group and to 365 in the 2-3 group, decreasing to nine in the 10-14 age group.

The five centers reported there were 84 non-fatal attempted suicides. Included were six in the 10-14 age group, 12 in the 15-19 classification, and 64 among those over 20. Four suicides from poisoning, all over 20, were reported.

The local center was set up to serve as an information clearing house and an emergency aid station, with services available on a 24-hour basis.

Bert Mason Wins Regional Squires Office

Bert Mason, LaSalle High School junior, who is past state chief squire of Maryland, was elected regional bursar during the Mid-Atlantic Conference of Columbian Squires held during the weekend at Atlantic City, N. J.

The election was held at noon yesterday at the Ambassador Hotel, conference headquarters. Elected chief squire was William Basta of New York City.

Governor Meyner of New Jersey spoke at the opening business session at noon on Saturday. On Saturday and Sunday the Squires from nine states attended corporate Mass and Communion at Our Lady of the Sea Church.

A delegation of five squires from Bishop James E. Walsh Circle 1222 here attended the conference under the direction of John Rorick, past grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, and state chief counselor of Squires.

Local members who attended include Arthur Merritt, past chief squire; John Harper, bursar; Charles Himmler and William Wright, members; and Mason.

John J. O'Donnell and Albert Lawler, counselors of the local circle, also attended.

Next year's conference will be held in New York State. Represented at this year's meeting were Squires from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Deleware, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Louisiana.

Rotary Club To Hear Telephone Official

Mr. Carlson will discuss and show color slides which were taken during the construction of the Distant Early Warning Line in Arctic region.

Food Dealers Plan Meeting

The Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland will meet Wednesday at 8:15 p. m. at the Sell and Company sales room at 820 Lafayette Avenue.

Local Airport Is Popular As Soaring Center

German Sailplane Is Hangared Here

The Municipal Airport at Wiley Ford is rapidly becoming one of the main soaring centers between Pittsburgh and the Washington-Westminster areas, a spokesman for the Cumberland Flying Association said yesterday.

Six airplanes are now hangared at the local port and another one is due to arrive next month, according to the spokesman, who said an unusual glider at the port is a KA8 Schleicher which was manufactured at Poppenhausen, Germany in the Wasserhuppe Mountain Range, the birthplace of soaring in that country in 1920.

Three men own the plane. They are Helmut Kanter, Ph. D. of Monroeville, Pa., a physicist at Westinghouse in Pittsburgh; Deter Ennulat, also of Monroeville, like Dr. Kanter a native of Germany; and Eugene Ruperto of Pittsburgh.

After checking on soaring conditions at the airport here, the physicist said the thermals over the ridges are ideal for sailplanes.

The plane was brought here over the Labor Day weekend and is hangared at the local airport.

Attended Fly-In

Mr. Ennulat was first of the three men to visit here, having attended the "fly-in" brunch in August. He talked with a group of local soaring enthusiasts, was convinced soaring conditions are conducive to the sport, and returned over the Labor Day weekend with two other men.

They also interested Dick Hupperts of Wilkinsburg, Pa., who has a 1-26 Schweizer which he plans to bring here next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Bates and four boys who now live in Washington, D. C. and are formerly of Odessa, Texas, have been traveling here over the summer weekends to soar.

They are the owners of an L-K glider which was trailered here early in the summer and is hangared at the port. The family camped out at the airport over the weekends.

Another interesting sailplane, a V-tailed Alibi, a custom-built job which cruises at 100 miles an hour, was brought here over the Labor Day weekend.

Championship Sailplane

The plane, owned by G. H. Christiansen, of Millville, N. J. and Edward Fritz, Perryville, N. J., won the 1955 national championship at Elmira, N. Y.

It was brought here for the soaring meet in August 1960 and was also flown here during May this year. During this summer it was flown from here to Park Hall, located 15 miles below Patuxent, a five and a half hour journey of 156 miles.

The pilot had hoped to reach Millville but was unable to get to his destination and landed at Park Hall.

In addition to the craft mentioned there are four sailplanes owned by local personnel.

Coin Club Meets Tuesday At City Hall

An auction sale will be conducted by George Waingold and prizes will be awarded.

Scouters Plan For Weekend

Several activities are planned this weekend at Camp Potomac for leaders in the Boy Scout and Cub Scout programs.

A training course on the outdoor program for Boy Scout leaders will begin Friday at 2 p. m. and will end Sunday at 2 p. m.

The course will consist of planning the outdoor program for the coming year and planning short and long-term camping trips.

All troop and post leaders and committeemen are requested to attend the three-day event.

A Cub Scout Pow Pow is also scheduled Saturday from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. at the camp near Oldtown. The Pow Pow is a different type of training event required for the training awards for Cub Scout leaders, den mothers and pack committeemen.

Pennsylvanian Held Here On Federal Count

A 41-year-old Pennsylvania roofer is being held in Allegany County jail in default of $5,000 bond on charges that he transported a forged check in interstate commerce.

Randolph White Via of Cornwells Heights, Pa., will be returned to Philadelphia sometime this week by federal authorities to stand trial, said Edward J. Powers, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Baltimore.

Mr. Powers said warrants also have been issued by Philadelphia police charging the man with bilking 81-year-old twin sisters of $48,000 in cash and securities.

The roofer, arrested Friday night in a local motel, was taken before U. S. Commissioner James Alfred Avirett who set bond at $5,000.

Philadelphia police said Via was charged with bilking Misses Dorothy and Bertha Weisgerber earlier in the summer.

Officials said Via, known in Pennsylvania's Bucks County as Randolph White, had been given power of attorney by the two spinsters, and through the sale of their stocks and gifts from them, he eventually accumulated their life savings of nearly $50,000.

The FBI entered the case, Powers said, when Via allegedly caused a forged check for $3,980 to be transported from Philadelphia to New York. The check was for the sale of stocks belonging to the Weisgerber sisters, Powers said.

Lions Club Sets Policy In Sight Program

Deserving Youths Will Be Assisted

The Cumberland Lions Club has adopted an official sight conservation policy which will provide assistance to deserving children in this area with sight problems.

The plan was drawn up recently by the club's sight conservation committee and was approved last week by the board of directors of the local service club.

The policy provides that the administration of the program will be carried out through the Allegany County Health Department.

Nurses from the Health Department will conduct screening examinations at the schools and when sight deficiencies are established the nurses will arrange for assistance and necessary examinations at an eye clinic.

The program will provide for the cost of eye examinations and necessary glasses, and recommend medical treatment or surgery for the eyes.

Any resident of Cumberland up to and including high school age will be eligible for aid upon application by the parents or guardian if in need of assistance.

The Health Department nurses will determine the financial need based on qualifications set up by the Lions Club. The local service club said that in any event no area child shall be deprived of necessary treatment for a sight deficiency.

In addition to residents of Cumberland, assistance will be extended to children residing in nearby communities which do not receive similar support from a local Lions Club chapter.

The local club announced that during August 27 children received eye examinations. Seven others were provided with glasses and three received repairs to their glasses.

Besides the work in the field of sight conservation, the Lions Club recently contributed $1,000 to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.
